IBM Plans Spacecraft Jobs Next

Product, Service Programs Expand

CHICAGO, April 24 — Stockholders attending the annual meeting of International Business Machines Corporation today were told by Chairman Thomas J. Watson Jr. of the progress the company is making in providing its customers with new products and services to solve their increasingly complex problems.

The meeting took place in McCormick Place, Chicago's new exposition building. It was the first IBM annual stockholders meeting to be held outside of New York State.

Guidance Computer Next

In describing some of the new systems that will be needed to meet customer requirements in the months and years ahead, Watson announced that the company will develop an advanced electronic guidance computer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's two-man Gemini spacecraft. Under an award from the McDonnell Aircraft Corp., IBM will provide equipment to help steer the Gemini spacecraft into a rendezvous with another vehicle while both are orbiting the earth at a speed in the neighborhood of 17,500-miles-an-hour.

"Last year," Watson said in describing expanded customer services, "the company helped train more than 100,000 of our customers' people. This is accomplished with a faculty of 800 IBM instructors who teach in classrooms at our branch offices and education centers throughout the country."

Reports on Earnings

In his report to stockholders, Watson noted that the company's net income after taxes for the first quarter of 1962 was $56,264,982, an increase of $7,438,313 over the corresponding quarter of 1961.

Earnings per share during the first quarter were $2.04 compared with $1.76 last year after adjusting for the 50 per cent stock split up which took place last May.

Before and after the meeting,

But Won't Budge on Issues

Khrush Likes JFK Plan Of Accord Before Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has told an American publisher he agrees with President Kennedy that accord on crucial issues must precede a new summit meeting between the two leaders.

But the Soviet premier gave no ground on major East-West issues in an interview in the Kremlin last Friday with Gardner Cowles, president and editor of Look magazine and president of the Des Moines Register and Tribune Co.

Should Meet Again

Khrushchev told Cowles he now agrees with Kennedy that they should meet again only if such a meeting could produce positive results.

"We should first reach some agreement on the questions on which our common decision is required now to avoid a conflict and war," he said.

The Soviet leader expressed hope that a major war could be avoided, but he repeated his previously stated support for defensive war against an aggressor and wars by subject peoples to liberate themselves.

During wide-ranging discussion that lasted nearly three hours, Khrushchev told Cowles that he thought an agreement on Berlin and Germany should precede any disarmament agreement, but that he realized the arms issue was "the question of questions."

The 68-year-old Soviet leader made clear he had not budged in his refusal to tolerate any form of nuclear inspection, which he looks on as merely a cover-up for espionage.

Khrushchev expressed belief some glimmers of hope for a Berlin and German settlement have appeared in the current negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union. He reiterated the Kremlin condition for such agreement—withdrawal of Western troops from West Berlin.

Khrushchev placed no time limit on the current talks and indicated he is prepared to pursue the present effort to reach an interim solution without applying any sudden new pressures on West Berlin.

WILL COMMAND IN EUROPE—Gen. Paul L. Freeman Jr., who helped organize "Merrill's Marauders" of World War II, will take over as the U. S. Army's European commander on April 30. He will succeed Gen. Bruce C. Clarke who is retiring. (AP Wirephoto)

Carlson Home Is Badly Damaged By Hurley Fire

The split level home of William E. Carlson on Circle Drive, Hurley, was extensively damaged by fire Tuesday afternoon. Cause of the fire, which started in the attached garage, is unknown.

The blaze was discovered about 4:15 o'clock and by the time the alarm was sounded the fire, driven by a high wind, had gained considerable headway.

Francis Whispell, assistant chief of the Hurley department, was in charge of the firemen until Chief Kenneth Cudney arrived to take charge. Firemen saved a considerable amount of furnishings but a car, snowblower, mowing machine and

Incinerator Fire Sweeps 75 Acres In Oliverea Area

Because of the increasing rash of grass, woods and forest fires and the dangerous dry condition of the turf and woodlands, and fire in an incinerator which on Tuesday afternoon spread to the woods in Oliverea Valley sweeping 75 acres of forest land, all burning permits in six counties have been cancled.

Permits have been canceled, and no others will be issued until rain eliminates the fire hazard, in Dutchess, Ulster, Putnam, Orange, Sullivan and Rockland counties.

Fanned by Wind

Fire in an incinerator on the William Kahlert property in Oliverea Valley yesterday, spread into the nearby woods and driven by a high wind swept up the mountain to burn some 75 acres of forest land before being brought under control.

Fire Chief Alfred Eignor of the Big Indian-Oliverea fire company reported today that the fire had broken out again last night and firemen returned to the scene where they remained until 11:30 p. m. A check was made today and it was reported the fire apparently had been completely extinguished.

Out of Control

Chief Eignor reported an alarm was sent in about 2:45 p. m. Tuesday when the fire went out of control on the Khalert propert. In addition to the Big Indian-Oliverea department, Pine Hill and Shandaken firemen fought the fire while Phoenicia

Wallace Manager Post Changes in Po'keepsie, Here

It was announced today by Andrew B. Wallace 3rd, president of Forbes & Wallace Inc., that George F. Sullivan is retiring as manager of Wallace's, Poughkeepsie, as of April 28.

Sullivan will be succeeded by Thomas M. McGrath, who has been manager of Wallace's, Schenectady, since April 1960.

McGrath has been associated with Forbes & Wallace, Inc., since April 9, 1930. He has managed the company stores in North Adams, North Hampton, Holyoke, Mass., and Schenectady, N. Y.

His new position also carries with it the responsibility for the company's new store, Wallace's, which will open in Kingston around August 16.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath expect to move to Poughkeepsie within the next few weeks. They have a daughter, Kathleen Estrader, living in Chicago, and a son, Tim, who resides with them.

Mr. Sullivan has been with Wallace's since 1942 as assistant manager and merchandise manager of main floor departments. Before that he was associated with Bon Marche, Lowell, Mass.

Irresponsible, ANPA Chief Says of Newspaper Critics

NEW YORK (AP)— The president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association attacked as irresponsible today those critics who would "have the public believe newspapers (are) fading away."

Mark Ferree, ANPA president, told more than 1,200 publishers at the ANPA convention that "a new stridency has crept into some of the 'professional' criticism leveled at newspapers something quite the opposite of constructive criticism."

In a prepared address, Ferree argued that such critics chop at the roots of the newspaper tree, "never recognizing that they, with all free citizens, live and work in the shade of that very tree."

Ferree, executive vice president and general business manager of Scripps-Howard Newspapers, warned that if newspapers—as a fully independent medium of news and opinion — faded, "criticism would wither, not for lack of a target but for lack of its chief protector."

He declared that newspapers were prepared to use imaginatively all opportunities of the space age, and announced the creation of a scientific advisory committee of the ANPA.

The committee will assess ways of adapting the latest scientific findings and equipment to newspaper technology, he said.

It will consist of Athelstan F. Spilhaus, dean of the University

To Ask 150 Owners for Buildings

Fallout Shelter Plan Is National

Some 150 owners of buildings in the county are being asked permission "to designate certain structures" as official fallout shelters, Maj. H. Edgar Timmerman, Ulster County civil defense director revealed today.

Perkins & Will, architects, of White Plains, within the past few months he said, have conducted a fallout shelter survey in the county to ascertain which existing structures offer promise of substantial protection from radioactive fallout, and letters are being prepared seeking permission to designate the structures "as official fallout shelters."

Nationwide Program

This is being done, he said, as part of a nationwide program aimed at locating in every community all shelters "which will accommodate a minimum of 50 persons and have an acceptable protection factor."

The program, he said, "should not be confused with the family fallout shelter program, which, in some instances may be preferred by families on a do-it-yourself basis."

Permission for use of the buildings will be by written agreement known as the "fallout shelter license," between owners and state and federal governments. Provision is to be made for storage of survival supplies.

Desires Forms Soon

Maj. Timmerman requests all owners to cooperate in completing necessary forms and returning them to the Civil Defense Office, City Hall, Kingston, as soon as possible. Reports on progress of the program, he said, must be made to the State Civil Defense Commission no later than May 13.

A special Common Council committee, headed by Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D), Third Ward, was named last year to consider use of downtown caves for shelters, and it is expected that further reports from it will be made this year.

Armory Shelter Done

Construction of a shelter in the State Armory off Manor Avenue, was authorized in 1960 and work on it was completed recently.

A report from defense officials last year indicated that the downtown caves, properly equipped, could be used as shelters. The caves, owned by the city, have been leased for several years by Knaust Brothers Inc. for the growing of mushrooms.

It was noted recently also that the county has other caves which could be used for protection against fallout.

75 Attend 1st Breakfast Session of Area Chamber

Seventy-five members and guests attended the first Community Breakfast sponsored by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel this morning.

Joseph J. Benjamin, chairman of the special Breakfast Committee, opened the meeting and presented Chamber President Sam Pepper who served as chairman of the business program.

In opening the meeting Pepper read a proclamation issued by Mayor John J. Schwenk proclaiming April 25 as "Chamber of Commerce Day" in Kingston. The breakfast was part of the local celebration of state-wide Chamber of Commerce Week as proclaimed by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Several brief committee reports were given including a progress report by Harry Rigby Jr., temporary chairman of the board of trustees of the Ulster County Community College. Rigby stated that although the college trustees have only been organized for a very short time several meetings have been held and field trips for proposed site inspections made. A target date for starting freshman students has been set for September 1963. To meet this date temporary facilities would have to be used.

Among those who made reports for committees were: Christus J. Larios, chairman of the Community Development Committee; William E. Belser, chairman of the City and County Legislative Affairs Committee and Santos Matthews, who reported for the Convention and Visitor's Committee.

Several in attendance were recognized for their achievements. These included Chester L. Fienberg of Troy, general manager of the Standard Furniture Company stores, who attended with Jay Melton, manager of the new store on Wall Street; Harry Kaprielian, president of the C. Ramsey Corporation and the Wright Gage Company, both of Kingston for recent expansions and Edward Dunn, manager of the new Ulster Branch of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston.

Chairmen Presented

Committe chairmen presented were Chester A. Baltz Jr., of the City and County Legislative Affairs Committee; Richard M. Kalish, of the Community College Committee; Fred Stang, chairman of the membership committee. Louis Voerman, a new director and Howard A. Lewis, a Chamber director and chairman of the City Executive Committee on Urban Renewal were also presented.

A feature of the breakfast program was five minutes of "News Headlines," by Dick McCarthy of radio station WKNY.

A gift presented by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, was awarded to Harry Rigby. It was an all electric combination sharpener.

The Chamber of Commerce plans to hold similar breakfast meetings at regular intervals during the year.

Big Help for Race to Moon

Saturn Clicks, Blown Up After Water Dumped

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The great Saturn booster was launched successfully for the second time today and was deliberately blown up after the trial to dump 95 tons of cloud-forming water into the upper atmosphere.

With a tremendous roar and spurt of flame, the world's mightiest known rocket rode 1.3 million pounds of thrust to an altitude of 65 miles. There a signal from the ground detonated dynamite charges which ripped the vehicle apart spilling the water into the near-vacuum of space in a bonus experiment.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced several minutes after the 9 a.m. launching that the flight was completely successful.

Observers saw the water quickly form a huge cloud of snow-like ice particles which spread several hundred feet across a clear sky.

The great mass—higher than any natural cloud has flown—remained seemingly motionless in the air for only a few seconds, then spread apart and quickly vanished.

Remarkable Performance

As on the first flight of the Saturn last October, only the first-stage performance was being checked. And once again it was a remarkable performance by what is believed to be the largest and most complex rocket in the world —a forerunner of a rocket designed to carry American astronauts to the moon later in this decade.

By the time the explosive charge was ignited 160 seconds after launching, the 162-foot Saturn had completed its main mission—a check-out on the booster itself.

The eight powerful engines in the first stage functioned for about

Rural Dems Again Prod Samuels to Seek Nomination

AVON, N.Y. (AP)—For the second time in a month, Howard J. Samuels of Canandaigua has received "enthusiastic encouragement" to seek the Democratic nomination for governor from the Rural County Democratic Chairman's Association of Western New York.

At a closed meeting Tuesday night the 11 county chairmen met with the 46-year-old Samuels and agreed to make his "background, experience, and ability known" in other sections of the state.

Mind Not Made Up

Despite this urging by the chairmen, Samuels repeated earlier statements that he had not made up his mind about seeking the candidacy at the party's state convention in September.

"This is a serious move...one that will take due consideration," he told newsmen after the meeting.

He added, however, that he felt

100 Fail To Storm U.S. Site

Nuclear Shots Are Possible Any Hour

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States fired its first shot of the new nuclear test series in the atmosphere over the Central Pacific early today, Pacific Time, government informants reported.

An official announcement was expected from the Atomic Energy Commission later this afternoon.

Information was that the shot had been fired in very late morning, Washington time, and first reports here from Task Force 8 indicated a successful test.

Protests mounted in various corners of the world today as the U.S. nuclear countdown got under way for the first explosion of the new test series in the Pacific.

One hundred left-wing students tried to storm the American Embassy in Tokyo today but 200 police stopped them, 50 yards short of the gate.

Students Stage Sitdown

Students later marched to Tokyo's Shimbasi railway station, sang the Communist Internationale and staged a brief sitdown strike.

Elsewhere, protesters even favored sending of warships to the Christmas Island area in an attempt to stop the U.S. tests.

President Kennedy gave his final approval Tuesday for the series of test shots in the atmosphere. The Atomic Energy Commission announced the tests would begin "as soon as operationally feasible."

The Japanese government issued a mild statement about the tests.

"For world peace and welfare, Japan is opposed to any kind of nuclear testing by any country," said Masayoshi Ohiara, Cabinet secretary.

Would Send Warship

The plea for sending a warship to the Pacific was made in Madras by Indian elder statesman C. Rajagopalachari in an appeal to Prime Minister Nehru.

Earlier, Earl Bertrand Russell, British philosopher and pacifist, urged India and seven other nonaligned nations to send ships to the area.

U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant also urged the atomic powers to refrain from further nuclear weapon explosions.

On Capitol Hill, Kennedy's go-ahead announcement was greeted with general approval, with several members of Congress saying that the President had no alternative.

Some Strong Support

The U.S. Information Agency said today it has found strong support in the Philippines, Thailand and Latin America for the resumption of U.S. atmospheric testing. It reported that opinion in areas including the Middle East, South Asia and Africa is opposed to testing.

It has been almost four years

Governor Signs for Major Court Revisions, 1st in Over 100 Years

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "The major objectives of court reorganization have been achieved," Gov. Rockefeller said today in announcing he had signed a series of bills to implement the first major revision in more than 100 years of the state courts.

The legislation sets up the machinery to put into effect a court-reorganization amendment voters added to the state constitution last November.

The court plan, effective Sept. 1, provides for:

1. Establishment under the existing Judicial Conference of an Administrative Board that will oversee the statewide court system and have power to transfer judges and cases from one court to another, supervise budgetary matters and establish personnel standards.

2. A statewide Family Court, which will replace the Domestic Relations Courts in New York City and Children's Courts elsewhere, with jurisdiction over youthful offenders up to age 16.

The family court will have jurisdiction over all aspects of family life, including crimes committed by one member of a family against another, but State Supreme Court will retain jurisdiction over separation, annulment and divorce proceedings.

3. Consolidation of several courts within New York City into two, basic tribtinals—one civil, the other criminal.

State aid to fix uniform salaries for county and family court judges and surrogates outside of New York City at $20,000 each, salaries of civil, criminal and Family Court judges within the city at $25,000 each.

The state will contribute a total of $10,000 toward salaries in counties of under-40,000 population; $20,000 to those between 40,000 and 100,000; $30,000 to those between 100,000 and 300,000 and, in larger counties and New York City, $10,000 for each judge.

4. Allowing justices of State Supreme Court who retire at the present, mandatory age of 70 to serve to age 76 at full pay, provided they remain physically and mentally capable.

5. A program of training for justices of the peace.

The court plan is the result of extensive compromises during its evolution over the last several years.

The Legislature rejected earlier versions because, among other things, they provided for abolition of the present system of peace justices in each town and the substitution of full-time, district courts with jurisdiction over wide areas.

Strenuous objections came from Republicans representing upstate counties, in which the peace justices, who are elected officials frequently form an important part of the local GOP organization.

The question of age qualifications for adjudication of young persons as juvenile delinquents also was the core of a longstanding argument, still to be resolved.

While the present age limit of

$55.8 Million Profit Too Little, View Of Blough; 'Something Must Be Done'

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger M. Blough says U.S. Steel Corp. will "have to do everything we can" —short of an early increase in prices—to bolster earnings.

"The economic situation that we had before we attempted to change our prices remains with us," he said in appraising future prospects of the nation's third largest industrial corporation.

Blough, U.S. Steel chairman, referred to the surprise $6 a ton boost announced April 10 and then withdrawn 72 hours later in the face of an angry response by President Kennedy.

He met with newsmen Tuesday after "Big Steel" disclosed January-March profits were $55.8 million. He said the figure left nothing for plant improvement after keeping abreast of dividend obligations to stockholders and debt repayment requirements.

In defending the abortive price boost, Blough had said it was needed to gather funds for upgrading and expanding plants to stay competitive with rival materials at home and steelmakers abroad.

The industrialist, answering the questions with customary caution, mentioned no specific steps for overcoming the corporation's cost-price squeeze, speaking only of an intense effort to hold down costs.

He indicated the government could help out by liberalizing regulations on depreciation, a factor in profits.

He ruled out repetition of the price move two weeks ago when asked whether there would be prior consultation with the White House in any such project.

"First, let me say that I have no contemplation on the part of United States Steel at the moment with respect to any major change in the level of our prices," he replied.

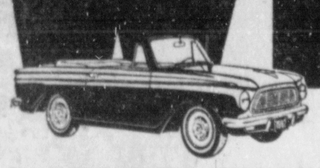

Queried about the possibility of increases on selected steel products, as distinguished from an across-the-board hike, Blough said "I didn't intend to convey any impression whatsoever with respect to that. I would say that is a matter which would have to be taken up in the future."

Accompanying the earnings report was declaration of a 75 cents a share dividend on common stock, the same payment directors have voted each quarter since the start of 1957.

Blough declined any forecast on what directors may decide in the future on the dividend rate.

Wilson Says Democrats Dominated by Bosses

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP) — The best assurance of good state government is the combination of a Republican executive and a Republican Legislature, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson contends.

For that reason, Wilson said Tuesday night, re-election of a Republican - controlled Legislature in November is essential. He spoke at a dinner of the Republican city committee in this Central New York community.

Wilson charged that Upstate Democrats in the Legislature voted consistently "with the boss-dominated crowd from New York City and against the welfare of their own constituents."

The dinner honored Assemblyman Louis H. Folmer of Cortland.

Republican Gov. Rockefeller and Wilson will seek re-election this year.

Backwoods to Athens of West

World's Fair Great For Seattle Culture

By BOB THOMAS

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The world's fair is giving Seattle a great cultural leap forward. All that other American cities need to follow suit is some imagination and several million dollars.

You had only to witness the Century 21 Exposition's opening night gala to sense Seattle's transition from a cultural backwoods to a potential Athens of the West.

Quite A Show

It was quite a show, the cream of Seattle society, plus some skimmilk visitors, gathered in the massive new marble and cherrywood opera house to hear a concert that would do justice to any musical capital in the world.

First Milton Katims conducted the accomplished Seattle Symphony through a Beethoven symphony. Then bushy-haired Van Cliburn ripped through a Rachmaninoff concerto in his histrionic style.

The glittering audience rose to cheer Igor Stravinsky as the crickety near-octogenarian walked gingerly to the podium. He conducted his Firebird Suite with vigor.

This was a dazzling start to what shapes up as the most culture-minded world's fair in history. The performing arts committee has combed the world for attractions such as England's Old Vic Company, India's Uday Shankar dancers, the Philippines' Bayanihan dancers, the Ukranian State Dance Company, Foo-Hsing Chinese Theater, Le Comedie Canienne, Royal Dramatic Theater of Sweden, and D'Oyly Carte Opera of England, etc.

Magnificent Buildings

For the less long-haired there will be Victor Borge, Roy Rogers, Lawrence Welk, Count Basie, Benny Goodman, Ella Fitzgerald, Arthur Godfrey and even Yogi Bear and Huckleberry Hound.

What makes the Seattle fair impressive from a cultural view is the construction of magnificent new buildings to house the arts in future years. The opera house—actually an old civic auditorium that was gutted and rebuilt—may be the handsomest in the United States. Soprano Mary Costa tells me she considers the acoustics the best she has ever heard.

Built especially for the fair were a jewel-box playhouse that seats 800 and a spacious art museum. The 5,500-seat arena for ice shows and other spectaculars was given a new front. The stadium, formerly for high school football, is adaptable for rodeos, water-skiing shows, etc.

Hearing Is Set On Cemeteries, Weekend Burials

ALBANY — The second and Upstate portion of public hearings to explore the public need in connection with the availability of cemeteries for weekend burials will be held Friday, May 18, at the State Office Building, Syracuse, the State Cemetery Board announced today.

Hearings already have been held in New York City to enable interested parties in the Metropolitan area to express their views on the question of curtailing weekend burials. The State Cemetery Board has a responsibility for almost 2000 membership corporation cemeteries throughout the state.

As in the New York City session, invited groups included representatives of interested management, labor, religious, and civic organizations and members of the Cemetery Advisory Committee.

Chairman of the Cemetery Board is Secretary of State Caroline K. Simon. The other members are Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz and Commissioner of Health Herman E. Hilleboe.

It is hoped, Mrs. Simon said, that the hearings will "serve to improve understanding among the divergent groups involved, and to help the Cemetery Board reach a determination that will best serve the public interest."

At the March 22 meeting in New York City, more than 20 speakers gave their views on "this most sensitive and far-reaching matter."

Air Force Lists Change of Hours At Local Office

An increased interest in the U. S. Air Force by impending June graduates has caused a change in the local Air Force Recruiting Office hours, Sgt. Richard C. Lambert announced today. Starting immediately the local recruiting office will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 to 12 Saturdays.

The Air Force, which offers over 200 career specialties, expects to handle a large number of enlistments during the next few months. The increased office hours will enable the local recruiter to offer better service to persons interested in becoming a member of the U. S. Air Force Aerospace Team.

Sgt. Lambert also announced that during April, May and June the Air Force will have key vacancies in electronics, administration and mechanics, but with the influx of June graduates, many of these slots will be filled rapidly.

Persons who are out of school, or expect to graduate in June, may call Sgt. Lambert or drop by the office any time during the above hours.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There are times when it seems that television land is inhabited exclusively by cowboys, crime fighters, and comedians.

That, in itself, wouldn't be so bad, but the comedians seem to be night club graduates who have taken their old routines in Danny Thomas style, into what television fondly believes a home like yours and mine—except our homes don't have those wall to wall laugh tracks.

Therefore, it is nice to report that Dick Powell, just about the last of the urbane comedy actors, is still adding a deft touch to amusing shows that fall a bit south of Noel Coward, but far north of "Pete and Gladys."

Tuesday night was a happy example—a slight tale about a corporation lawyer retained to protect a poor working girl who had been plagiarized.

The girl, however, was a stripper of high principles whose choreography had been snatched by a rival. It was a funny idea and Powell and his aides made the most of it.

didn't catch on despite its Cape Canaveral setting.

The anthology series, which has included serious as well as comedy shows, has been renewed for another NBC season. It should be — it's one of television's best hours.

CBS is planning a complicated realignment of its daytime schedules starting on June 18. Most interesting will be the start of a Monday- through-Friday afternoon version of "To Tell the Truth," the amusing guessing game which will continue in its Tuesday evening spot.

In the process of making room for the panel show between 3:30 and 3:55 p.m., two audience participation programs bite the dust —"Video Village" and "Video Village Jr.," a children's version of the game on Saturdays.

Also disappearing will be "The Clear Horizon," a recent addition to the ranks of soap operas that have not caught on despite its Cape Canaveral setting.

Two vintage dramatic series will be expanded. "Brighter Day" will move into the morning line-up (11:30-11:55) and "The Secret Storm" will start 15 minutes earlier (4-4:30 p.m.)

Recommended tonight: Bob Hope Show, NBC, 9-10 (EST)—with Frank Sinatra, Janis Paige and Dorothy Lamour.

Charge Is Made Rights of States Hurt in Dealings

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state Interdepartmental Health and Hospital Council says federal agencies increasingly are tending to ignore the rights of states by dealing directly with local governments and organizations.

In a statement Tuesday, the council said:

"Any program which encourages agencies of the federal government to negotiate directly with local government or voluntary agencies without notification to the appropriate agency of state government is in opposition to the rights of states."

The council cited cases in which it said the federal government had bypassed the state to make grants directly to public and nonprofit organizations for study of methods of providing health services outside of hospitals.

The council argued that state agencies must have information that is "important in the development of an acceptable state plan." If the state is not informed, the statement said, the federal government's role in the field of health will not be fully effective.

Members of the council are the commissioners of mental hygiene, health, education, and social welfare, and the state insurance superintendent. The council was formed in 1960 to serve as a clearing house for information among state agencies dealing with health and hospitals.

THE CREDIT SYSTEM

One hears outcries from time to time that the American people, through easy credit buying, are on the thin edge between affluence and the poorhouse.

There was even one case in the news recently of a man who embarked with his family for Australia to escape the "American rat race" of seductive advertising and keeping up with the Joneses.

A more sober appraisal of our buying habits, however, puts these fears in their proper perspective. Undoubtedly, many persons go into debt unnecessarily. But the vast majority who make use of installment credit—and they form half the purchasing population (or "spending units")—do so in a conservative manner.

According to the findings of a University of Michigan survey team, the burden of installment debt is no higher than it was five years ago.

The middle or low income family spends about the same proportion of its income on automobiles, furniture appliances and house repairs as does the high income family. Significantly, however, use of installment buying is increasing among families earning over $10,000.

Formerly, installment buying was considered a middle income trait. The economists explain the change by the fact that many families have advanced into the higher income group in the last few years and have carried over the habit.

Only 10 per cent of the spending units interviewed had debts representing 20 per cent or more of their annual income. And those who tended to make new purchases were generally those with successful records of installment buying in the past.

KIDS IN SPRING

Pussy willows and crocuses and such are not the only things brought out by spring. Birdsong is not the only new sound to be heard as the days lengthen. Warm weather also brings out the little children, and the pleasant sound of their voices.

The little children romp in the yards; they zip up and down the sidewalks. They also, now and then, rush heedlessly into the street. Sometimes they merely wander into the streets, or even crouch there observing a bug or the like.

Which brings us to the admonition of the day. We have already telegraphed our punch, but here it is: As spring is a time for little children to emerge and play in the sunshine, so it is a time for particular caution in driving. Alertness, even greater alertness than usual, is the best way to avert tragedy.

FOCUS ON TOMORROW

One of the nation's more successful space ventures is the Tiros weather satellite. The first television pictures showing how the earth looks from space, crude as they were to the layman's eyes, were a thrilling achievement.

Latest in the series is Tiros IV, which is now going international. The U.S. Weather Bureau has begun broadcasts of cloud maps based on Tiros photographs. With the proper equipment, weathermen all over the world will be able to receive these maps by radio to supplement the more conventionally gathered data.

The benefits which world-wide weather surveillance will bring to men still lie in the future. But a big step has been taken toward that future.

COWCATCHER FOR BULLHEADS

An 18-month study of 200 pedestrian deaths conducted by Cornell University Medical School and New York City authorities has come up with an interesting suggestion.

As reported in the AMA Journal, the study states that "It is possible that a 'cowcatcher' design (on automobiles), which will cradle the pedestrian more effectively, may eliminate some of the injuries now associated with secondary impact against the pavement."

Something certainly has to be done, short of leading pedestrians by the hand. For in over three-fourths of the accidents investigated, the pedestrian had brought it on himself by violating some safety regulation, such as crossing against the light or jaywalking.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

REPUBLICANS AND KENNEDY

Up to that press conference on steel prices, it could be said that the principal opposition to President Kennedy came from Democrats on special issues. On the whole, the Republicans took to the President and tended to avoid opposing him and his program.

One reason for this attitude was that, except for Senator Barry Goldwater, the Republicans lacked effective leadership, neither Dwight D. Eisenhower, Richard Nixon nor Nelson Rockefeller offering anything that stirs men's hearts. Also, the nature of the Cold War requires sincere national unity and Senator Everett Dirksen provides every evidence of that.

President Kennery was achieving a unity perhaps not known since the era of good-will of the Monroe Arministration. The public was weary of the trickiness of the Roosevelt Administration, the blatancy of the Truman Administration, the emptiness of the Eisenhower Administration. The Kennedys presented a picture of imagination, charm, enthusiasm, which captured the sympathy of the largest part of the country, although many Republicans had their fingers crossed.

This is, after all, a two party system even if one of the parties has been left headless. The President's furious responses to steel's price rise won him an immediate victory, but it gave the Republican Party what it lacked, an issue. The issue is the rights of private property. After all, the U. S. Steel Corporation is not owned by one man or even controlled by one person. It is owned by about 300,000 persons and institutions, some of them wealthy, others possessing few shekels. The President's anger with the ineptness of management was perhaps justified, although it would have been better had the President used a rapier instead of a sledge-hammer. The Republicans will say that the President opposes the profit and loss system. What is his substitute?

An elderly reader from West Springfield, Pennsylvania, writes me, in obvious distress:

"We boast about the 'Land of the Free.' What freedom have we left? I suppose we will wear meters on our noses and pay for the air we breathe before long."

The writer of this letter says that he and his wife are in the 80's, which does not make them old fogies any more than the young men about the President are children, and each has only one vote on Election Day when an opinion may be expressed in a manner that counts.

President Kennedy must take reparative steps to win back that popular unity which so strengthened his position in his European negotiations. A foreign official, wise in such matters, asked me smilingly what I would think of it all if I were in the Kremlin waiting for my chance as a cat watches a mouse? The simile was apt. The Russians play for time—time when the United States seems to be soft or disturbed.

It is sound politics for the United States to keep its distress behind closed doors, as when a husband and wife quarrel. In public, it is always unseemly; in private, it may lead to reconciliation and even heightened affection. The Republicans went along with Kennedy because, in the circumstance, there was nowhere else to go. Now, the Republicans have elsewhere to go, namely, to the support of private enterprise as an ideal of life.

My guess would be that such excitements as may be caused by Senator Estes Kefauver will not go far. It is impossible to produce steel efficiently except by the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars. At a time like the present, it is as ridiculous to disrupt the steel industry as it was for U. S. Steel to ignore the President's efforts to arrest inflation by such methods as his economic advisers recommended.

The Republicans face the problem of mobilizing public opinion in support of a program and a leadership. This party cannot find public support on the issues of the 1930's or even the 1950's. A new generation of voters view many problems from altogether a different standpoint than their elders did. The eventual strength of the Republicans may come out of the South and the Southwest where new populations are developing. This will take more time to appear than many Republicans believe. It will indeed be difficult for politicians who since the organization of their party have been favorably disposed to political equality for Negroes. They cannot deny this heritage to prove their opposition to President Kennedy.

Ferret Out the Cause Of Insomnia—and Sleep

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Next time you can't get to sleep or doze off and waken wide-eyed in an hour or so, don't look for something with which to slug yourself off until you've figured out the cause for your insomnia.

Here are some highly unscientific suggestions:
Room too hot or too cold.
Air too dry or too soggy.
To many or too few pillows.
Too many or too few blankets.
Sheets too tight or too loose.
Mattress too hard or too soft.
Room too noisy or too light.
Too much or too little activity before retiring.

Stimulation of card game, movie or argument or listlessness due to a boring evening.

Stomach too full or too empty. No good trying to sleep if you're blown up like a tick or if your tummy's grumbling because of hunger.

Drug stimulation from too much coffee, tea or cola beverages. Or pep-up pills. Or appetite-killers containing pep-uppers. Or from thyroid over-dosage. Or from alcoholic drinks like brandy that produce early drowsiness and later excitement. Or, in the hospital, from morphine-like pain killers that take away your discomfort but leave you as jumpy as the proverbial cat on the proverbial hot tin roof.

Exposure to industrial stimuli while on-the-job, especially tetraethyl lead additives to motor fuel.

Cold tootsies, leg cramps, etc., relieved by wearing bed socks and long woolies.

Sleeping companion who holds breath, thrashes about or snores.

Nasal obstruction that wakens you with a snort.

Spell of coughing usually from accumulated secretion in back of throat.

Nightmare, especially after drinking bout.

Itching, particularly in winter from skin dryness.

Overstimulation from very hot bath or very cold shower taken just before turning in.

It doesn't make any more sense to try to overcome these causes for insomnia with a sleeping pill than it would to combat a noisy television program by stuffing cotton in your ears. Any child big enough to reach the knobs would know enough to turn down the volume. Or off.

"Here Boy!"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Basic U. S. National Security Council foreign and national defense policy papers are undergoing review with considerable soul-searching by Kennedy administration top strategists.

THIS EXERCISE has been under way for six months and there is no terminal date in sight yet. The project is in charge of Walt W. Rostow, counselor and chairman of the State Department's policy planning council. It involves all agencies taking part in National Security Council affairs under Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy, including the Departments of State, Defense and Treasury, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Central Intelligence Agency, U. S. Information Service and Office for Emergency Planning.

The new paper is still in draft form, the low-level "Indians" not having submitted it to the "Chiefs," meaning the President and Cabinet members in NSC, for their approval.

Preparation of the new strategy paper is described as a routine operation. Some efforts to sensationalize it as a new, top secret policy are characterized as exaggerations.

THERE HAS BEEN an annual and sometimes more frequent review of NSC policy documents ever since the agency was created by the National Security Act of 1947. Under both Presidents Truman and Eisenhower it was found necessary to make revisions as world conditions changed and as new weapons were developed.

Big changes came with Russia's first nuclear explosion, the Marshall Plan, Truman Doctrine, Korean War, development of the hydrogen bomb and guided missiles, the 1960 Communist Manifesto on world, limited and local wars of liberation.

The current review is primarily a matter of consolidating and codifying the many changes of policy which have been made by the Kennedy administration in its 15 months in office.

Many of these new policies have been made public in the President's messages to Congress, in his inaugural and later speeches on Berlin, nuclear testing, disarmament, foreign trade, foreign aid and the Alliance for Progress in Latin America.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Undersecretary George Ball have elaborated on some of these policies in their most important speeches of the past year. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's statements to Congressional Armed Services Committees have given the guidlines on military policy.

PULLING THE PHILOSOPHY OF THESE TEXTS into one document makes it a working paper for people who must apply foreign policy in their day-to-day operations.

At the same time, codification is revealing some conflicts and differences in emphasis of past policy declarations. No effort is being made to negotiate these differences out by compromise language. But the apparent inconsistencies do present a number of unresolved problems which will require solution for applying administration policy in future operations.

What this revision of NSC papers amounts to, thereafter, is said to be a stock-taking to find out what the key problems of strategy are and to translate ideas into specific actions.

The purpose is not to produce a crisis handbook with an index which can be consulted to find out what should be done to meet the next crisis in Cuba, Viet Nam or The Congo.

It is more of a lang-range planning document. It will be useful in presenting alternatives to the President for his decisions. It will be useful in shaping programs and budgets which are already in preparation for 1963 and beyond.

HOW FAR DOWN THE BUREAUCRATIC LADDERS the paper will be circulated has not yet been decided. It will be of obvious use to assistant secretaries, administrators and policy planners in State and the Pentagon, Armed Forces theater commanders and ambassadors.

It will make a big book, perhaps too big a book for easy use. Whether it will be made public has not been decided, though there is said to be nothing new in it. Past practice has been that all National Security Council papers are classified "top secret."

Squeeze on Business Seen If Federal Pay Goes Up

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — In these days when "non-inflationary" means that it's all right for wage costs to go up but that it is sinful to increase prices, the latest move by the Administration to boost pay scales among government workers is just beginning to attract attention.

President Kennedy has asked Congress to increase the wages of government workers by about $1.1 billion a year in separate stages over a period of three years. This amounts to a 10.2 per cent increase from the present scale.

A comparable increase in the rates of private wages and salaries would cost private business about $23.5 billion a year.

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has issued a comparison of Federal salaries with those in various occupations. It is based on a Department of Labor study of professional, administrative, technical and clerical pay.

Higher in Business

Up to now private business in some instances has had a higher wage rate in the higher brackets of clerical employes, and the government has regularly maintained a better position in the lower brackets. Now, however, if government rates go up, private business will find itself confronted with the necessity of pushing up many of its wage and salary scales.

President Kennedy's bill provides that, even when the salaries of government workers and those in private business reach approximately the same level, there must be an annual survey and adjustment of Federal salaries to keep them equal to or above the private level.

Fringe benefits provided by the government are at least as generous as and often better than those granted to salaried workers in industry. The government worker, for example, is permitted to accumulate unused sick leave.

Proposed Schedules

Under the proposed schedules, office boys who at present get $3,521 a year in government, as compared with $3,119 in private industry, would go up to $3,641. A chief personnel director in government who now gets $12,745 would go up to $15,285, as compared with $14,532 in private business. Nearly 41 per cent of the stenographers in private business in America will be getting less than the proposed government minimum. It means, therefore, an upward pressure on wage scales inside industry and business.

Now, the argument isn't whether these pay rates are justified in either case. If it be assumed that wage rates for white-collar workers are, generally speaking, too low, the question is how industry and business are to get the additional funds to pay for their increases. The Federal government has it easy. It merely gets Congress to increase the the debt limit when tax receipts aren't enough for Federal spending.

Private industry, however, can only raise its prices or go broke. This is what is sometimes described as a wage-price spiral. President Kennedy has called for "stability" in both wages and prices. But he seems to have ignored his own doctrine as he asks Congress to raise wage levels in government.

It will be argued that the government workers have been lagging behind and that all the Administration is trying to do is to "catch up." But that was precisely the language of the U. S. Steel Corp, as it recently called for a "partial catch-up" on its wage costs through a small price increase.

Those who may not realize how closely related government pay scales can be to private industry need only take note of a telegram just sent by 157 printing firms in Washington to President Kennedy and members of a committee in Congress. It reads as follows:

"Report of proposed 24 cents per hour increase to composing room employes at the Government Printing Office is shocking. This compares with average increase of 9.3 cents per hour for same craft in commercial contracts negotiated throughout the United States in the last six months. Such proposed increase of 6.8 per cent contradicts Administration policy of non-inflationary increase and would have nation-wide impact."

For the past 14 years it has been customary for the Government Printing Office to use a weighted average of the union scales in 24 leading cities as compiled by the Department of Labor. But now the formula has been changed to include the higher rates of pay among night workers and the monetary value of fringe benefits. This puts the private printing establishments here on the spot and must inevitably result in increased prices to the public — unless the President steps in. Certainly there has been no consideration given to any "productivity" guidelines in this case.

The government's role in fixing wage costs is far reaching. Congress, which has the power to approve or disapprove the wage increases for government employes, is anxious to help the worker get better pay. The real point is whether Congress will help employers in private business to get higher prices, or whether the "profit squeeze" will continue to become more and more acute, thus forcing many marginal concerns out of business and leaving the field to the larger companies. Unemployment will thereby be increased.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Maj. Gen. Walker was badly rough-housed by the Washington elite of our free press who covered his testimony on ulterior forces at work in the American Army zone in Germany. They were especially nasty in their concentrated cancellation of his military honorific earned in closer proximity to battle than the combined experience of Eisenhower, Marshall, Bedell Smith and Clay who never are denied ruffles and flourishes. These journalists called him Mister Walker for resisting the unremitting campaign to inflict ruthless authority on the world. Almost invisible, dappled with the camouflage of many political cults the enemy has shed Communism for the time being at least. It is now "liberal," "progressive" and "democratic" but never uncompromisingly American.

How will this defrocking affect General Telford Taylor, the courtroom soldier of the Truman regime who prosecuted German war criminals at Nurnberg in association with the bloody-handed Russian accomplice of Adolf Hitler, but defended Harry Bridges in San Francisco? Is he still a general?

How about Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, of NBC, whose fine-print in Who's Who stretches from here to hell-and-gone? Did he ever lead troops even in the NRA parade up Fifth Avenue? Shall we now call General Sarnoff "Hey You!"

An Colonel Oveta Clup Hobby of the WACs? How about "Toots?"

Some strange eraser was used on General Walker's ordeal before the Senate Committe. I finecombed the New York Times and Herald Tribune but caught no mention of Max Ascoli and his fortnightly magazine called The Reporter. Now that is strange because other papers reported that General Walker did mention The Reporter and they gave Ascoli the courtesy of this sneering rejoinder: "I am sure he never looked at a single copy of The Reporter — or, if he looked, didn't understand. In which case, I don't understand how he was graduated from West Point."

I was not disappointed, for one gets used to such things, when Sen. Symington, who was present, failed to speak up on this. He is an authority on The Reporter and Ascoli. He joined the late Senator Bridges and a half-dozen others in a loud personal attack on Ascoli in the Senate in 1954. He knows enough about Ascoli to have kept General Walker in business. But he seems to have turned his back on this pro-American as he did a few years ago when Joe McCarthy proved absolutely right in the case of Annie Lee Moss, a Negro woman who had been employed in the Pentagon. Momentarily the anti-McCarthy cabal confused matters with a fake issue of mistaken identity. But later inquiry showed that McCarthy had been right. Symington could have vindicated General Walker. So could Vice President Johnson and Senator Dirksen. Why didn't they? What has happened here?

Max Ascoli came to this country as a refugee from Mussolini's revolution. Senator Bridges said in that fierce debate that Ascoli arrived on the magic carpet of the Rockefeller Foundation, which is tax-exempt, so that American citizens had to pay his fare. Then he nestled in the New School for Social Research where Mrs. Roosevelt's protege, Hans Eisler, also found comfort until it was safe to go back to East Germany as culture director of the Communist state.

This was long before Mussolini joined Hitler and adopted anti-Semitism. The Duce's objection to Ascoli was entirely political, not religious or "racial."

In the United States Professor Ascoli got waivers on his Number One wife and married a rich daughter of Julius Rosenwald. After that, both of them gave political contributions to Arthur J. Goldsmith, the cheese-cloth dragon of the Waldorf Tower, for use against certain Senators. Ascoli's magazine plastered New Hampshire with tearsheets against Bridges and papered Nevada with evil attacks on Senator Pat McCarran, a benign, religious man who wanted to screen European immigrants. Ascoli didn't like that. He hadn't been screened to any painful degree himself. The Reporter got subsidized circulation all over our European zones. We paid for that.

Later, Ascoli's Italian handicraft company got a loan of $4,600,000 from the Export-Import Bank and Senator Bridges said in the debate that this was termed a grant because after spending $2,900,000, the company could not repay the loan. That was Bridges' statement on the floor and Symington and Dirksen heard it and joined the attack.

So why didn't they at least put in a word for their tortured martyr compatriot, Mister Walker? Don't Americans give a damn any more?

Named Speaker For VFW Citizen Award Dinner

A New York attorney, prominent in the Department of New York, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Heyman Rothbart, will be the principal speaker at the annual citizenship award dinner of Joyce-Schirick Post 1386, VFW, honoring Louis Schaffer to be held Saturday, May 5, at White Eagle Hall.

The local VFW annually honors an outstanding citizen with a testimonial dinner. This year's award winner is general secretary of Kingston YMCA, a prominent member of the community interested in youth activities.

Rothbart, named guest speaker by VFW Commander Martin J. Saban, is a member of the firm of Rothbart, Rothstein & Panken of New York City.

Rothbart has been a member of the VFW since his return from World War II where he served in the European Theatre with General Pattan's Third Army. He served three years as judge advocate of the Department of New York and has been the legislative committee chairman for New York County Council and the Second District.

Peak Is Named After Deceased Supervisor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 3,840-foot-high peak in the Adirondacks has been named Rist Mountain to honor the late Ernest D. Rist, for many years supervisor of the Town of Newcomb in Essex County, N.Y.

The designation was announced Tuesday by the U.S. Interior Department's Board of Geographic Names, which rules on proposed place names and irons out any conflicts.

Rist Mountain is about 3½ miles southeast of Tahawus. It is the highest, previously unnamed peak in what the board, in another decision, said would be called the North River Mountains.

The North River Mountains make up a range about five miles long and three miles wide just east of the Opalescent River in Essex County.

In a third designation for New York State, the board officially approved the name Brant Lake for a community 9½ miles northwest of Bolton Landing in Warren County. The community, listed by the Post Office Department as Brant Lake, previously was known as Bartonville and Horicon.

Brant Lake is on the southwest end of a lake of the same name.

Cancer High in Parents

Today there are over 300,000 Americans under the age of 18 who have lost fathers to cancer; over 250,000 have lost mothers. The American Cancer Society says fathers and mothers owe it to their sons and daughters to have a health checkup this year.

TV and Radio Get HearingPrivileges In Limited Way

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Radio and television stations are given limited authority to cover legislative proceedings, under a bill signed by Gov. Rockefeller.

The bill, signed Tuesday, authorizes coverage of hearings by radio and TV if the chairman and a majority of the committee members approves and if the witnesses involved are appearing voluntarily and have agreed to the coverage.

Under present law, radio-tv coverage is barred in any proceeding at which subpoenaed witnesses appear.

A legislative spokesman said the new law does not represent a major change, but he added that it was a "foot in the door" for radio and television newsmen at legislative hearings.

Today's Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) —The drive for shorter work weeks and longer vacations and earlier retirement with larger pensions may worry the corporate cost accountants. But it spells good times for the large and growing number of persons and industries offering personal services, recreation and travel facilities, and allied leisure-time pursuits.

Same Trend for Decade

With more people having more time on their hands and more money in their pockets, the personal services and the recreation industries can't see how they can do anything but prosper.

The trend has been strongly that way in the last decade. And this is one factor in President Kennedy's campaign to increase the nation's public recreational facilities.

The new push is coming from this year's drive of labor to emphasize the fringe benefits as much or more than the hourly wage scale.

The steel industry, with its new labor contract providing fringe benefits without immediate pay labor contract providing fringe benefits without immediate pay raises is an example—quite aside from the squeeze this puts on steel profits at current prices.

Part of the drive is built on fear of automation takine away more jobs. Shorter work weeks, longer vacations, earlier retirement, all are advance as ways of creating more jobs, or at least as many as there were before the machines began doing more and more of what men and women once did.

Competition Gains

Part of the drive is because competition for existing jobs is increasing with the prospect of much larger labor forces in the years just ahead.

In 1947, the Department of Commerce says, the consumer spent 31 cents of each dollar for services. In the first three months of 1962 he spent 42 cents. Total consumer spending, meantime, had risen at a pace closely tied to the increase in nation's total output of goods and services. That is, since the Korean War, consumer spending has ranged from 64 per cent to 66 per cent of this gross national product.

Until now the big gains have been in spending for interest payments, hospital and health insurance, medical care, and household repairs.

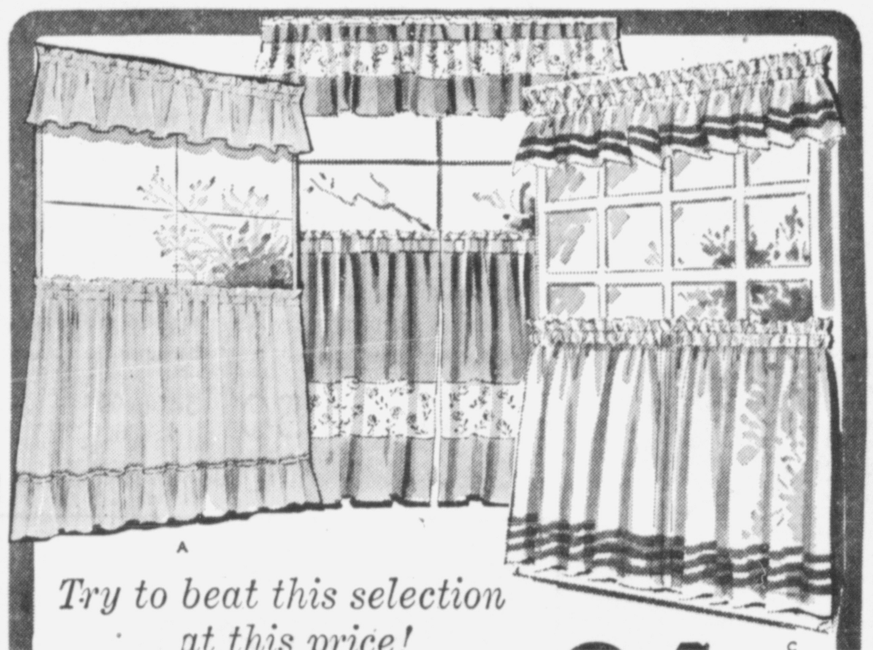

But in the future there may be more spending on the varied forms of recreation, from sports to travel.

This is because the nation seems set on a course toward more leisure time. The cost accountants may say we can't afford it. But from the signs this year and last, we're going to try it anyway. And those who help people kill time, or to improve their minds or bodies, expect to prosper.

Commissions Are Available Now For RNs in Army

As a result of the recent build-up in Army strength, and in line with increased national demands, the Army Nurse Corps (ANC) has experienced a critical shortage of qualified nurses.

All registered nurses between the ages of 20-35 are being urged to contact the nearest Army recruiter in order to determine their eligibility for commissions in the ANC as second or first lieutenant, or, in some cases, captain.

Sgt. Edward Malenski, Army recruiter in Kingston, has announced that he has been authorized to discuss eligibility requirements with interested nurses. He has also been given authority to arrange interviews with the Army Nurse Corps representative for New York, Major Marian J. Setter.

Major Setter's office is in B.ston—at the Boston Army Base—but Sgt. Malenski reports that the major will gladly meet locally with qualified, interested nurses who are unable to travel conveniently to Boston.

The Army's immediate need is for registered nurses who are prepared to serve now. However, as part of its planning to meet long-range needs, the Army offers several scholarship programs to young women pursuing studies in nursing. These plans are available to nurses on both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Any Registered Nurse or nursing student, who has given any thought to the prestigeful position of an Army Nurse is urged to contact Sgt. Malenski at the municipal auditorium, 467 Broadway.

ABC's on Need for Testing

Background Is Presented On Nuclear Competition

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are in a grisly dance being played to the tune of "Anything You Can Do, I Can Do Better."

They're set for a new round of nuclear tests in the atmosphere, each explaining it must keep the other from getting ahead in the art of destruction.

But each test series gives the one conducting them fresh insights and refinements in weaponry, thus jittering the other into feeling it must have new tests of its own.

No End in Sight

This can go on indefinitely, and probably will, since the two giants after years of talking can't agree to a permanent ban on tests.

President Kennedy gave the go-ahead Tuesday to American tests in the atmosphere. He explained why last month: to stay in front of the Russians.

But last August, when Premier Khrushchev broke a three-year voluntary ban on testing by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, Moscow gave this reason: The Soviet Union couldn't let this country develop a nuclear weapon superiority over them.

Between the end of World War II and the latter part of 1958, the big powers had this number of nuclear tests: the United States —160 to 170; Soviet Union—60 to 70; the British—more than 20. France later had four while the others weren't testing at all.

Then on Oct. 31, 1958, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union began talking about agreeing on a permanent test ban. They talked for almost three years. In that time none of them conducted a known test.

No Signed Agreement

But they did this only voluntarily, not by signed agreement.

In the summer of 1961 U.S. authorities reportedly were picking up information that Soviet scientists and military men were pressing Moscow to resume tests.

In this country pressure, particularly from Congress, began building up on Kennedy to resume American tests.

Suddenly on Aug. 30, 1961, while the American-Soviet-British talks about a permanent no-test agreement were still going on, Moscow announced it would start testing. And it did, on Sept. 1.

The Soviet Union said it had been compelled to take this "to perfect the most effective types of weapons to cool the hotheads (in the West)."

The Russians added that the United States was getting ready to resume underground tests for the purpose of perfecting its weapons.

In the next couple of months the Soviet Union had more than 40 tests. Kennedy felt he no longer could sit still. On Sept. 6 he said that "we have no other choice" and announced he had ordered the resumption of American tests, but only underground or in laboratories.

U.S. Gets Into Act

By Nov. 2, after the whole string of Soviet blasts, Kennedy announced preparations were being ordered for the resumption of American atmospheric tests because of Soviet gains.

Still, arrangements were made for new talks on disarmament, including a nuclear test ban—this time by 17 nations, starting in Geneva last March 14.

On March 2 Kennedy announced this country would go ahead with its atmospheric tests—suspended since 1958—unless before the end of April Moscow agreed to an effective test ban treaty. It hasn't.

Kennedy said the West couldn't survive "were we to stand still while the Soviets surpass us."

Khrushchev has warned that if the United States resumes testing, the Soviet Union will have to do more testing. France probably will test some more. Britain, too. In time Red China should join.

After a while Uncle Sam, the Soviet bear, the British lion, the Chinese dragon and the French girl in a tricolor will all be dancing in a circle.

Following the Presidential visit, the destroyer headed for Viegues, Puerto Rico, to take part in a three-week joint Navy-Marine Corps maneuver involving more than 40,000 sailors and Marines aboard some 83 Atlantic Fleet ships to be climaxed with an assault on Vieques.

Dilworth Rates His Regime Best in U.S.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—The former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth defended his administration as the best in the United States Tuesday and challenged U. S. Rep. William W. Scranton to try and prove otherwise.

The people of Philadelphia realize what accomplishments have been made under Democratic administrations and won't be fooled by false campaign issues, the Democratic organization candidate for governor declared at a news conference.

His remarks stemmed from a statement Monday by Scranton, the Republican organization candidate for governor, that Dilworth had protected "corrupters and bribers" in his city administration.

"I don't think he kids anybody with that kind of stuff," Dilworth replied. "There is no truth to it. I think we ran the best city government in the United States. This was even acknowledged by several Republican publications."

The former Mayor challenged Scranton to visit Philadelphia and make an issue of alleged corruption in his administration.

"I don't think he'll make any progress with that (issue) in our part of the state," Dilworth said, shaking off Scranton's suggestion that the blame for the recent scandals in Philadelphia be placed on his shoulders.

Discussing alleged bribery on construction contracts, Dilworth said:

"It was discovered by my administration, the people responsible were rooted out and we recovered every penny of the million dollars that was lost on some contracts.

"Nobody accuses the board chairman or the directors when a bank teller embezzles money.

"We of course had boasted a great deal about our purity in office, our service to the people so that our opponents jumped in with great glee at the first opportunity they had in 10 years."

Jaycees Support School Bond Issue

At the last meeting of the Saugerties Junior Chamber of Commerce, Norman Nitschke, representing the School Building Advisory Committee, presented the facts of the child population and building requirements of the Saugerties Central Schools as determined by the committee.

After considerable discussion a motion suporting the $1,200,000 bond issue was passed.

Some of the points discussed were: location, desirability of sessions, and choice of architects. It was pointed out that the choice of locations was determined by the student population and the existing schools.

It was also noted that students on double sessions are receiving less than a full day's education. Some people have individual preferences as to architect but this preference is irrelevant to the merits of the bond issue which must be judged on the buildings proposed, the Jaycees think.

This building program is considered very economical because the cost per square foot is between $16 and $17 which is below the state average.

Saugerties Has 422 Signed Up in American Legion

At a well-attended meeting of Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion, last Thursday at the Legion Home, plans were studied and voted upon for alterations to the building and a new edition of the post's by-laws. New members were also introduced at their first meeting of the post.

In the Ulster County membership race among Legion Posts, Arthur Kilburn, membership chairman, announced a total of 422 signed to date—which is already 16 over the quota for the Saugerties Post. The post also voted to meet with other local organizations at the request of the Lions Club to work for the location of the Ulster County Community College in the Saugerties area.

Plans were made for a Legion participation in the VFW Loyalty Day parade on April 28 as well as Memorial Day. The annual backing and donation of $100 was made to the Saugerties Babe Ruth League.

Vets Who Own Homes Advised to CheckExemptions

Home-owning veterans should mark their calendars as a reminder of Grievance Day in their particular locality, according to Charles L. Culver, State Veteran Counselor, New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency. Veterans must act on or before that day in order to take advantage of the State law granting tax exemption for real property purchased with eligible funds. They would do well to establish the amount of their exemption as soon as possible, they added. Veterans who desire to take advantage of this benefit afforded them by New York State must file a "verified" application with the local assessor on or before Grievance Day in the particular locality where the property is located.

The exemption does not apply to school taxes or to levies made by special districts (some seriously disabled veterans may be permitted special exemptions.) Otherwise, all state, county, city, town and village taxes are exempt. However, Culver and Tyler pointed out that there are various restrictions and limitations to the amount a veteran can claim as exempt and to the type of funds which are eligible for application to the exemption.

Unless the veteran has already established the amount of exemption to which he is entitled, he should contact the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency office as soon as possible in order to check eligibility, procedure and limitations under the law. The address is 32 Main Street, with branch offices located at Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

Po'keepsie Couple Awarded $37,000, Injured by Dog

A Supreme Court trial jury at Poughkeepsie last night returned verdicts totaling $37,000 in favor of Fred Carlin, and his wife Lillian, of Poughkeepsie, against Kenneth R. MacGhee, New Hackensack Road, Town of Poughkeepsie.

The report was made to Justice Frank McCullough.

The Carlins sued the defendant for damages arising from an incident on July 13, 1956, involving the defendant's Belgian shepherd named "Flash." The Carlins claimed that the dog, frightened by lightning and thunder, went beserk at East Bend Lake, off New Hackensack Road, and knocked Mrs. Carlin to the ground.

Mrs. Carlin, the action noted, suffered a fractured hip. Carlin was employed as caretaker at East Bend Lake operated by MacGhee.

The jury awarded $27,000 to Mrs. Carlin and $10,000 to her husband.

Michael Nardone, Poughkeepsie and Highland attorney appeared for the Carlins. John J. Mulvey, Poughkeepsie, was attorney for the defendant during the trial which lasted four days.

Claims '62 Top Year for ICBMs, '63 Even Better

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Thomas P. Gerrity, chief of the Air Force ballistic missiles program, says 1962 is the "year of the big pay-off" in development and availability of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"This year we will triple our operational ICBM force and in 1963 we'll triple it again," he said Tuesday at an Overseas Press Club Luncheon.

He said the United States had started five years after the Russians and within a decade had "wiped out the discrepancy between our missile forces and those of the Soviet Union."

Rural Dems Again

"private individuals do have a responsibility to take a more active part in political life."

Last March 25, when the association was formed, it urged Samuels to seek the nomination with its backing.

He said he could not say when his decision might be forthcoming.

Two in Field

The announced candidates for the nomination include Rep. Samuel Stratton of Schenectady and Mayor Stanley W. Church of New Rochelle. New York Mayor Robert Wagner has been mentioned repeatedly, but has said he would not be a candidate.

Samuels is president of Kordite Co., of Macedon, a $50 million plastics manufacturing company with four plants in this country and several abroad. He founded the company in 1946.

Attending the meeting Tuesday night were John Keane, Wayne County, who is chairman of the association; Robert Prescott, Livingston; Donald Welss, Genesee; James Kerwan, Chemung; Robert Fleischer, Allegany; Leo Boyle, Seneca, John Fabrizi, Ontario, and James Carroll, Yates. The assocation also includes members from Wyoming, Orleans and Niagara counties.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel headed a sharp stock market decline early this afternoon. Trading was moderate. Aluminums retreated.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.50 at 253.40 with industrials off 2.40, rails off .60 and utilities off .60.

Losses of key stocks went from fractions to 2 or 3 points.

Steels more than wiped out their recovery of the previous session when they were anticipating U.S. Steel's action in declaring the regular 75-cent dividend.

Security analysts reported some disappointment that Big Steel had earnings of only 91 cents a share instead of about $1.10, as had been expected.

A sharp decline of aluminums and other stocks was linked by Wall Streeters to a prominently published account of Commerce Secretary Luther M. Hodges' remarks that the aluminum industry, among others, might be watched closely by the administration when the national interest is involved in wage-price decisions.

Firemen Treated For Shock at Columbia Blaze

Two Ancram firemen were treated for electric shock Tuesday after a most unusual accident while responding to a brush fire. Both were treated at Columbia County Memorial Hospital and released.

Hoysradt Porter, president of Ancram Fire Company, reported Chief Roy Boyce Jr. and Fireman Benjamin Heermance had responded for a brush fire on Doodletown Road. An old elm had blown down against an electric line. The weight of the tree stretched the wires to the ground where they were hidden by the tree. It is believed the wires set fire to the brush.

Chief Boyce became entangled in the live wires and Heermance apparently brushed against Boyce. Copake Rescue Squad gave first aid at the scene. Chief Boyce was treated for burns of the arms and legs in addition to shock.

Incinerator Fire

firemen stood by as support company.

The fire was brought under control by back-firing. Forest Ranger Aaron VanDeBogart, of the Conservation Department staff was also at the scene. The fire burned through some heavy timberland.

Chief Eignor reported one fireman, Russell Pierson was burned about the face and Kahlert was overcome by smoke while battling the fire.

Permits Canceled

Town of Esopus Fire Marshal Harry L. Maines said today he had canceled all burning permits in that township, effective immediately. He said further information about the ban on burning may be obtained by calling him at OV 6-7851. He said the ban would continue until rain eliminates the present hazard.

District Forest Ranger Humphrey Hedgecock, who has charge of Dutchess and Putnam counties, said he had canceled all burning permits in those counties because of the extreme dry conditions of woodlands in those areas.

District Forest Ranger Arthur Walsh, Middletown, said he had canceled all burning permits in Ulster, Orange, Sullivan and Rockland counties.

Forest rangers warned all hikers and campers that it was too dangerous to use the woodlands and they urged full cooperation of the public, in staying out of the woods as much as possible.

The Ulster County Fire Control center reported that East Kingston firemen were called out at 2:36 p. m. Tuesday to battle a threatening brush and grass fire in that district. The recall was sounded at 3:23 p. m.

Dog Bites Fireman

Henry Harjes, a fireman, was bitten in a successful effort to save a dog which was in the kitchen. His brother was slightly burned while fighting the fire.

Mrs. Carlson and her four children escaped from the house without difficulty.

Although the door of the garage was open, the flames had gained such headway when firemen arrived that it was impossible to enter and save the car or other equipment. Gasoline from the car and other power equipment apparently added to the spread of the flames which were driven by high winds.

Carlson is employed by IBM.

Visitor's Record Broken

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Tourists visiting the United Nations set a new daily record Tuesday—8,273, compared with a 7,292 total set May 12, 1961.

Protests Mount

since the United States made its last nuclear tests in the atmosphere, although it has reported firing 29 small (as nuclear gadgets go) devices underground in Nevada since last fall.

It has been almost eight months since the Soviet Union set off a series of powerful nuclear blasts on her arctic proving ground—to shatter the moratorium observed by the two countries and Great Britain since 1958.

Joint Task Force 8—an organization of more than 12,000 men of the Air Force, Navy, Army, Marine Corps, Atomic Energy Commission and contractor employes—actually began preparations last Nov. 2 when Kennedy said the United States would go ahead with standby preparations for a resumption of atmospheric tests.

Preparations Increase

The tempo of preparations has increased since Kennedy announced March 2 that the tests would be started late this month unless the Soviet Union agreed to a fool-proof system for banning nuclear tests.

There the task force, supplied by ships and planes, has erected the facilities for hurling thermonuclear warheads into the edge of space, dropping them from planes, launching them in torpedoes and depth charges—and, equally important, trying out new explosive recipes for producing more nuclear yield from smaller packages.

The Scene Is Set

By this morning, the scene was set. The warnings to shipping and aircraft to steer clear of the Christmas Island area had gone into effect 10 days ago. The Christmas Island's designated area is a rectangle 600 to 800 miles, to which a smaller (120 by 240 miles rectangle) adjacent area was added.

The Johnston Island area is circular, radiating out 470 nautical miles at the surface. It is an inverted cone, with a radius of 700 miles at an altitude of 30,000 feet.

Kennedy, in his address of March 2, specified that the detonations would be conducted to seaward of the islands instead of on or over them.

Mindful of worldwide fears of fallout, the President emphasized safety for this new series.

He said by paying careful attention to location, wind and weather and by holding tests at sea it was intended to rule out fallout problems in the test areas and that radiation in the Northern Hemisphere would be held to "very low level."

No Super Explosions

Any fallout that comes down fairly soon from the new tests is expected to be limited mostly to a worldwide belt ranging from about 2,000 to 3,500 miles wide in tropics latitudes.

The government said that no super-size explosions—like the 58 megaton shot in the Soviet series—would be detonated. This has led to speculation the U.S. series might be limited to blasts no larger than 10 megatons (the equivalent of energy yielded by detonation of 10 million tons of TNT.)

The objectives of the new U.S. series generally are these:

1. Improve the explosive yield so that bigger warhead power can be carried longer distances without increasing the booster and missile size.

2. Explore the effects of very high altitude nuclear explosions to try to advance the antimissile missile program. A test explosion at an altitude of about 48 miles above Johnston Island in July 1958 and an earlier experimental shot at a lower level constitutes the only available data up to now the weaponeers want to know more about the behavior of neutrons in an airless void and the transmission, if any, of shock waves.

3. Explore farther the effect of thermonuclear detonation on electronic equipment, to learn how extensive and for what length of of time is radar "blacked out" by side effects of a nuclear blast. They also are interested in the possibility that neutron radiation could cause electronic computors to forget the guidance information cranked into missiles.

Other Objectives

4. To conduct realistic tests of nuclear warheads on missiles. None have ever been fired this way by the united states.

5. Test new designs and perhaps configuration of free-falling and rocket-powered bombs delivered by aircraft.

6. Test naval nuclear weapons. The Navy now has nuclear warheads for torpedoes, nuclear mines and nuclear depth charges. But they were designed by using data obtained in two previous underwater shots, with old and comparatively low-yield devices.

Pentagon officials said another major goal of the tests will be improved safety mechanisms. They said scientists will be looking for new ways to safeguard atomic weapons from accidental firing or sabotage.

Reports Thefts From Car

John Yonnetti, 17, of Bloomington, notified police Tuesday afternoon of the theft of a can of enamel and other items from his car while it was parked on Crown Street. Missing also, he said, were cigarettes and a gearshift knob. He was told, he said, that two teenage boys had been seen removing something from the car.

Retired Stationers Have Two Weak Spots in List

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "After thirty years of hard work in the stationery business, we have wound up in our late fifties with $55,000 in assets, flat feet and a bad heart for my husband. However, we're grateful to be alive and thank the Lord for our capital. Two years ago we began buying stocks. We now own Consolidated Edison, American Telephone, Parke Davis, Dresser Industries, National Fuel Gas, U. S. Playing Card, Brooklyn Union Gas, Southern Indiana Gas & Electric, and New England Telephone. Do you approve of our selections? Should any changes be made?" T. J.

A) You've assembled a good list of stocks, and I question the suitability of only two of the issues involved.

The first, Dresser Industries, began to show market weakness in 1957. In that year, share earnings hit a record $4.60, then dipped to around the $2.00 level, where they've remained ever since. I think that, given time, Dresser shares will work higher. However, to upgrade your list, a switch into Munsingwear (NYSE) would, I feel, be an advantageous move to make.

The second, Parke Davis, has also shown some market weakness, due mostly to its rather heavy dependence on a single antibiotic — chloromycetin. I believe that the market recovery of this stock may be rather slow and a swap into Green Shoe (NYSE) would serve to strengthen your portfolio considerably.

Q) "I'm a single working girl in my early twenties and would like to put some of my earnings into stocks. Is $500 too small an amount to begin with? If not, what stock do you suggest that I buy? S. H.

A) I think $500 would be a very good amount with which to begin buying some stock. As a starter, I suggest that you purchase shares of Delaware Power & Light (NYSE), an issue that I believe will do very well for you over a reasonable period of time.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Red Hook Man Is Given Sing Sing Term in Forgery

A 27-year-old Town of Red Hook man, on Tuesday was sentenced at Poughkeepsie by Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz to Sing Sing prison for a minimum of two and a half years to a maximum of five years.

Clifford Shenandoah, Town of Red Hook, pleaded guilty recently to reduced charges, and yesterday he admitted he was a second felony offender. The same sentence was imposed on two indictments, with the court ruling both should run concurrently.

Shenandoah was indicted in March on charges of forgery second degree, third degree burglary and petty larceny. He was permitted to plead to attempted forgery second degree and third degree burglary.

A second felony offender information was submitted by District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta, who said the defendant had been sentenced in Onondaga County in 1952 on a grand larceny conviction.

Ferree said newspapers had changed to protect the public's right to know and to respond to its needs in the space age.

Ferree said a recent survey showed that newspapers go into nine of 10 suburban and city homes, and are read thoroughly by seven of 10 readers. More than one-third of advertising was spent on newspapers last year, and circulations have reached record highs.

Newspapers that merged or suspended publication, he said, did so because of "specific local conditions—they will not indicate a weakness in all newspapers."

Records Disturbance

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP)—Uppsala University's seismograph showed indication of a disturbance shortly before 6 a.m. today, and a sharp earthquake shook the Grenoble area of southeast France about the same time.

After investigation, Dr. Severin Duda of the Uppsala Seismological Institution said the disturbance recorded by his instruments was probably an earthquake. There had been speculation earlier that it was the first blast in the new U.S. series of nuclear tests in the Pacific.

Ranger to Hit Unseen Side of Moon Thursday

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — As the sun rises Thursday on the desolation of the lunar landscape, U.S. spacecraft Ranger 4 is expected to plunge from the black sky onto the surface of the moon.

Scientists say it will strike the unseen back side of the moon at 8:50 a.m. EST, exactly 63.913 hours after it blasted off from Cape Canaveral—carrying elaborate television equipment and the hopes of United States lunar experts for a close-up look at the moon.

The hopes were shattered when a timer failed and halted a sequence of maneuvers which would have brought Ranger's television eye into play as it neared the lunar surface.

But Ranger, as blind as a plunging meteor, hurtled on toward what would be a historic collision. If it strikes as expected, Ranger will be the first piece of U.S. hardware on the moon. The Russians hit it in 1959.

A tiny radio is sending out steady beeps by which scientists from Pasadena's Jet Propulsion Laboratory are tracking Ranger's flight. When the beeps stop, they will know it has hit.

16 was retained, the Joint Legislative Committee on Court Reorganization will continue studies to determine whether it should be raised or lowered.

At present, children up to 16 who become involved in with the law are given special court treatment, including secrecy of proceedings and records.

The committee has been urged to raise it to provide similar protection for older youths and to lower it on the ground that the special treatment provided for those up to 16 could be an inducement for them to commit crime.

Candidates Talk At Hurley, in Katrine Thursday

Approximately 70 residents of the Hurley area attended a meeting at Hurley school Tuesday night to hear four of the candidates for membership on the Kingston Consolidated School District board discuss their policies and answer questions asked by the taxpayers.

The meeting, the third in a series was not under the sponsorship of the Kingston P-TA Council, but members of the Council attended the session.

A meeting will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. in Lake Katrine School under sponsorship of the P-TA Council at which time the candidates will be given an opportunity to appear and discuss their policies and answer questions. This meeting will be moderated by Joseph Benjamin.

The Hurley meeting was moderated by Surrogate Judge Francis X. Tucker.

Appearing at the meeting were Gifford B. Beal of Town of Ulster; Robert F. Browning of Kingston; Charles M. Rinschler of Kingston, and Zale Liese of Port Ewen. The other two candidates, Mrs. Julietta B. Netter of Kingston and Thomas Lyle of Kingston were not present.

Chairman Tucker expressed his disappointment in the small attendance at the session which indicated an apathy on the part of the taxpayers difficult to understand.

Matters of taxation, transportation and school funds were discussed with the candidates. The question of a sales tax to raise school funds was brought up and opposition to a sales tax for this purpose was generally expressed.

During the meeting reference was made to an advertisement appearing in the local press linking the names of Zale Liese and Thomas Lyle. Mr. Liese was asked if he had "chosen" his running mate to which he replied he had not. Had he been given the opportunity, however, he said he would have made such a selection.

Considerable time was devoted to a discussion of the provisions of the Diefendorf bill, which deals with transportation costs, an item of concern to areas where transportation is provided for students who reside less than one and a half mile from school. Under the bill a third of the cost of transportation is paid the first year, one half the second year and the third year all transportation costs are paid.

Methods of raising money for schools was one of the topics under discussion as well as the general tax raising problem.

Imports Authorized

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that 30,579,000 pounds of dairy products have been authorized for importation during the year ending June 30.

Included were 27,565,000 pounds of cheese, 702,240 pounds of butter, and 1,311,900 pounds of various kind of dried milk.

Justice Rejects Job Return Move Of Dismissed Cop

An appeal by dismissed Poughkeepsie Patrolman Frank M. O'Shea for reinstatement to the police department in that city, on Tuesday was denied by Supreme Court Justice Clare Hoyt at Newburgh.

O'Shea instituted the action against Police Chief John L. Martin and the three-member Poughkeepsie City Trial Board. The action was brought by O'Shea under Article 78 of the Civil Practice Act, asking the court to annul his dismissal from the force and re-instate him "under such penalty as the court may seem just and proper in the premises, and for such other relief the court may seem just and proper."

O'Shea Was Convicted

O'Shea was found guilty by the Trial Board on January 19 of police department charges which accused him of "conduct not becoming an officer and a gentleman, and conduct subversive of good order and discipline of the Police Department." The charges concerned incidents last May 19 at the Cherry Hill Tavern, Route 9W, Highland.

In his decision, Justice Hoyt said:

"The Court cannot in this proceeding question the determination of the respondent as to the guilt of the petitioner. It is believed, however, that a judicial review of the penalty imposed must be exercised with great caution. The respondents have, to a large degree, the responsibility for the maintenance of proper discipline of the members of the police force and their maintenance of a sense of obligation to the positions they hold.

Acted in Good Faith

"These are heavy responsibilities and when it appears, as here, that the respondents acted in good faith, had a reasonable basis for the action taken, it should not and will not be disturbed by this court."

O'Shea's motion was argued April 2 in Newburgh, N. LeVan Haver, Kingston attorney, represented O'Shea and Poughkeepsie Corporation Counsel Allen J. Weisman and Assistant Corporation Counsel Allen Rappleyea appeared for the city.

4 Say Innocent To Dover Plains Holdup at Bank

Accused of the April 16 armed robbery at the Dover Plains National Bank, four men pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges arising from the holdup before Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz, who declined to set bail until fingerprint records are before him.

District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta asked the Court to fix bail for each defendant at $50,000.

The defendants are, Charles James Cooper, 33, of 33 Carmine Street, Greenwich Village, formerly of the Town of Dover; Kenneth David Graham, 29, 42nd Street, New York City, theater manager; William Tell Maslousky, 20, unemployed, of Hurfville, N. J., and Perry Patrick Paulding, 20, a photography model, of New York City.

The four men pleaded innocent to three counts of first degree robbery, two counts of second degree assault, and counts of conspiracy ,grand larceny first degree, and carrying and using a dangerous weapon in the $43,-107.84 bank robbery.

Edward J. Filipowicz, Poughkeepsie attorney, appeared as counsel for Paulding and Graham. Maslousky and Cooper said they had not been able to contact counsel.

District Attorney Baratta said in court yesterday that in view of what transpired and in view of the armed holdup, in the course of which several persons in the bank were gagged and tied up by the suspects, he asked for $50,000 bail for the accused men.

Baratta said he understood that one of the men has a previous record. He said he didn't refer to either of Filipowicz's clients.

"I'm not going to fix bail until fingerprint records are available," Judge Schwartz said. He ordered the four men confined at the Dutchess County jail.

Dutchess Youth Turns Down Deer His Auto Killed

An 18-year-old Dutchess county youth has turned down an opportunity to keep a deer, hit and killed by his car on Monday, although Governor Rockefeller recently signed a bill allowing motorists to keep deer killed by their cars in accidents.

Rhinebeck state police said Robert Olah, of 18 Maizeland Avenue, Upper Red Hook, was driving south on Route 9, Red Hook, when a deer leaped into the path of his car and was killed.

Mrs. William Olah, mother of the youth, said that she and her husband were discussing the new bill, when they learned their son's car killed a deer. "We agreed we didn't want a deer that had been hit by a car," Mrs. Olah told newsmen.

A game warden disposed of the deer.

Saturn Clicks . . .

115 seconds, pushing the 463-ton vehicle to an altitude of 35 miles. The engines then shut off as planned and the rocket coasted up to the point of explosion—which occurred some 50 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral over the Atlantic.

Two dummy upper stages were filled with water to simulate the weight of the upper assembly to be carried on future Saturns.

It was this 23,000 gallons of water which was spilled into the icy ionosphere in a secondary scientific experiment dubbed "Project Highwater."

By tracking the cloud and recording its action scientists hoped to gain further knowledge of the upper atmosphere.

Officials were jubilant. Two straight successes in the program have given added impetus to America's plan to race the Soviet Union to the moon.

Richard Canfield, Saturn project officer, reported the good shots show that a vehicle such as Saturn certainly is feasible.

Canfield said primary purposes of the flight were to evaluate propulsion, aerodynamic characteristics, guidance and other systems in the first stage.

He said only minor changes have been made as a result of the highly successful maiden flight last Oct. 27.

IBM Plans . . .

stockholders saw graphic demonstrations of the problem-solving capabilities of IBM computers in an exhibit area of McCormick Place. A 1710 control computer operated a miniature paper plant which actually produced a continuous roll of 9-inch-wide paper. Other demonstrations included the sending of business information over telephone lines and the automatic retrieval of magazine articles by a 1401 computer.

Describing some of the key activities of the wholly owned IBM World Grade Corp., Chairman Watson told the stockholders of new IBM engineering laboratories built or under construction, in West Germany, the Netherlands, Great Britain and France.

Exploring New Fields

The company also is establishing a laboratory in Florida to support the nation's space and defense program. The Advanced Systems Development Division, he said, plans a scientific center in San Jose, Calif., to explore new fields and technologies for advanced information systems.

Watson said that the company is helping its customer develop systems solutions to some of their pressing problems. He noted particularly progress in airline reservation systems and in control systems for use in the paper, petroleum and steel industries.

At the annual meeting, stockholders approved an amendment of the company's retirement plan. The amendment increases the monthly income paid to employes who retire and increases the maximum limit on retirement income. The vote on this amendment was 23,930,563 in favor and 387,684 opposed. All sixteen IBM directors were re-elected. Approximately 2,000 stockholders attended the meeting.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Neil E. Olsen, who passed away one year ago today, April 25, 1961.

I often think of you,
And then of how you died,
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes;
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
I never thought your death was near;
But only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
God bless and keep you.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Flames shot 10 stories high today from a petroleum storage tank that exploded as escaping fumes floated across a highway.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Received two letters in the last few days on the famous Ulster County Gazette of Jan. 4, 1800. One comes from Gerald Stone of 507 Lake Street, Herkimer, N. Y., who writes: "One of your readers tells me that you write a column called, "Do You Remember," and that you might be able to assist me. We have an old newspaper printed 4 Jan. 1800 in Kingston. Among other things it reports the death of George Washington, first president of these United States."

Mr. Stone's letter further says: "If Kingston has an historical society, could you contact them for me or send me their address. We would like to contact people who would be interested in this newspaper."

The second letter is from Anna (Boice) Forster who writes: "Dear Sophie, remember me? We were both members of the KHS class of 1925. At present I am back teaching at the Myron J. Michael School in the social studies department."

Mrs. Forster's letter reads further: "My husband's sister sent me the enclosed clipping in a letter from Sarasota, Fla. Neither of us can tell, of course, whether or not the paper is authentic." The clipping with photograph of owner with Gazette is from the Sarasota Herald-Tribune (Florida) of Sunday, April 8, 1962. The owner in this case is Gene Masburn, charterboat fisherman who lives at 989 Patterson Drive. The paper was found by Mashburn in a trunk that his mother-in-law, Mrs. R. A. Leslie of Bradenton, had moved from a house she had bought.

Our Ulster County Gazette of Jan. 4, 1800, of which there are thousands of copies, has brought me mail from nearly every state in the union and even one from Hilton's Hawaiian Village, Waikiki, Honolulu, Hawaii, where Mr. and Mrs. Oscar London saw its mention in a newspaper there.

I wish I could say to all those who write in to me, that their copies are the original ones and that they are worth a fortune. I also own a copy that was published on October 26, 1950, by the Canyon City News of Azusa, Calif. In 1951 I bought a book called "The Ulster County Gazette and Its Offspring" for which I paid $1.50 from the New York Public Library, Fifth Avenue at 42nd Street, New York City. It was written by R. W. G. Vail. This illustrated book was then in its third edition so you can see how popular it was. Some museums and libraries have made collections of the copy of the Ulster County Gazette. They are American Antiquarian Society, the New York Historical Society, the New York State Library, The New York Public Library and the Library of Congress.

As far as I know the American Antiquarian Society at Worcester and the Library of Congress each have an original of this famous Gazette, printed here in Kingston by Samuel Freer, Jan. 4, 1800.

It is said, for instance that "in 1857 some laborers were engaged in the demolition of a house in Kingston, Ulster County, and they discovered beneath the lath and plaster of its wall, a copy in good preservation, of the Ulster County Gazette of Saturday, Jan. 4, 1800." There is much more to this story, as they thought perhaps at the time copies were made from it. Anyway, who knows perhaps in back of the plaster somewhere, there is an original in some of our old houses, why not, or in some old trunk, or in an attic. If only Samuel Freer could have known that some 162 years later his famous paper, which could not make him a bread and butter living would go on living, not only in Kingston and Ulster County but across the nation.

Po'keepsie to Get New Wards Store

Plans to establish a new Montgomery Ward retail department store in Poughkeepsie were announced Tuesday by Keith A. Brooks, eastern region general manager, in New York City.

The new store, scheduled to open in the fall of 1962, will be located in the proposed 20-acre Hudson Plaza Shopping Center on U. S. Route 9, 2½ miles south of the downtown area.

Ward's present 27,500-square-feet Poughkeepsie store, located at 17 North Market Street since 1929, will be closed when the new store is opened.

The new two-level building will have approximately 123,900 square feet of floor space including outdoor and seasonal sales areas, warehousing area, and an attached eight car auto service center.

Paved parking space for 1850 cars will be provided at the center.

"Our surveys show the population of Dutchess County has increased 29 per cent between 1950 and 1960," Brooks said. Ward's new store is planned to meet the expanding needs of greater Poughkeepsie.

First Patent

Sen. John Ruggles, of Maine, led the 1936 fight which induced congressional action to set up the U.S. Patent Office. Ruggles' invention was designed to add traction to railway locomotive wheels.

Card Count Easy to Make

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Hand three from the intercollegiate tourney is an excellent example of how declarer can locate a key card by counting the hand.

With 19 points opposite 15 North and South should reach six notrump. West would make his normal opening lead of the ten of spades.

South could win in either hand, but should win in his own hand and lead the king of clubs. West would win that card or the next club lead and play another spade. South would cash the rest of his black cards and then go after diamonds. The suit would fail to break, but it would not matter. South would have a complete count of the West hand because he would have shown up with exactly two clubs, two diamonds and five spades. The spade count would have been made possible by the fact that East had shown out on the third spade lead.

With nine cards in the other three suits West would hold four hearts and East two. A heart lead to the ace and another back to the king would leave East with no more hearts, so South would finesse against West's jack with certainty of success.

Science Topics Are Hair Sprays, Teeth And Polio Vaccine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Possible hazards in hair sprays, polio vaccine and tooth banks are topics of medical reports:

Hair Spray Hazard?

A medical study raises suspicions that hair sprays may cause lung diseases in some women, and men who work as hair-dressers.

There is no proof this happens, and thousands of women have used the sprays without any apparent harmful effects, says a team of doctors.

But they tell of 15 women and men who possibly suffered lung damage from breathing in particles of resins used in hair sprays. They found evidence of lung damage either in X rays, in examinations of bits of tissue, and in autopsies of three women.

Polio Vaccine

The new live-virus polio vaccine now is becoming available, but a committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics sees no emergency or urgency to give it to persons who have already had the full series of killed-virus of Salk vaccine shots and boosters.

Most paralytic polio occurs now among persons who didn't get Salk vaccine, it says. The specialists urge more effort to use the Sabin or live-virus vaccine in persons who as yet have had no vaccination. The Sabin vaccine offers several advantages, and "is best used on a community wide basis whenever an epidemic of polio strikes an area."

Extra Teeth

One day you may be able to call on a tooth bank to replace missing teeth.

As an initial step, teeth have been preserved and grown outside the body in research by Dr. Robert Gerstner at the New York University Dental Center. Teeth in early stages of growth can be treated with an anti-freeze, glycerol, and then freeze-stored for years. They grow normally again after quick thawing.

More Love Than Poetry

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Thom Gunn, a young British poet now teaching at the University of California, told a University of Buffalo audience that there's a scarcity of good poems about happy love.

"I guess," he said, "It's because all there is to say is 'How happy I am, I love you.' It's not an emotion that needs enlarging upon."

Unhappy love is another thing. Said Gunn:

"I can think of myriads of good poems about unhappy love —about frustration, disappointment, rejection and misunderstanding."

Merryle Rukeyser, the financial expert, tells of one brash Wall Street banker who agreed to address a conference on a subject he knew nothing about. The day before the meeting he sent his secretary to the public library to dig up some pertinent facts and figures. The secretary returned empty-handed, saying,

Secretary—There isn't a man alive who could get the information you want in less than five years.

At the conference the banker impressed everybody, particularly his secretary, with the detailed statistics that he reeled off. Here, obviously, was an expert! The audience took copious notes and applauded ecstatically.

On the way back to the office, the secretary said,

Secretary—On the level, boss, how did you get all those statistics?

Boss—I just used my common sense and some imagination. You said it would take five years to get the real facts. It will take any one of those birds just as long to prove I'm a faker.

Why do we have to stand for the outrageous double parking on the crowded business streets of this city? Every day it seems to be getting worse and streets are blocked so traffic cannot move in any direction. No parking of any kind should be allowed on any of the downtown streets and double parking should carry a fine of about $25 for each offense.

'62 Lamphrey Run May be Finale For Great Lakes

TORONTO (AP) — Success may be in sight in a long battle against the sea lamprey, says J.W. Spooner, Ontario minister of lands and forests.

"If our biologists have not misinterpreted the evidence of the poisoning program to date, the spring run of 1962 will be the last heavy sea lamprey run from Lake Superior," he says.

"In spite of our best efforts, however, it is extremely doubtful if sea lamprey can be completely eliminated from the Great Lakes."

The lamprey, an eel-like fish that grows to 12-24 inches, kills by fastening itself to a fish and sucking blood.

It has been in the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario for centuries. After the Welland Canal opened in 1829 it bypassed Niagara Falls. Even then it took the lamprey nearly 100 years to pass through Lake Erie.

It practically eliminated lake trout except in Lake Superior. Control efforts have centered there.

In a continuing program to rehabilitate the Lake Superior fishery, the Ontario government will plant half a million marked lake trout yearlings this spring.

This is part of a multimillion-dollar campaign of lamprey control and restocking started in 1958 by the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission. The Canadian and U.S. governments and provincial and state agencies are represented.

The attack is based on the fact that the mature lampreys spawn only once, in gravel - bottom streams. Young lamprey hatch and work their way downstream during a period of four or five years to the open lake.

Poison developed for spawning streams is highly selective and issued in concentrations that have only slight effect on other fish.

Makes Speed Record

The all-new Avanti being introduced publicly Thursday by Studebaker has established a new world speed record for a passenger car over a measured 2¼ mile course. The new car, conceived by Sherwood H. Egbert, president of Studebaker-Packard Corporation, covered the distance in 60.80 seconds, with a top speed of 171.10 miles per hour. The average speed certified by the Southern California Timing Association was 133.334 miles per hour. Anthony "Andy" Granatelli, president of Paxton Division of Studebaker, drove the car in its record feat near Jean, Nevada.

21 Area Firms Win Awards In Annual Safety Contest

Twenty-one area firms will receive 36 awards at Poughkeepsie on Monday, May 7 for completing without lost-time accidents the 37th annual Accident Prevention Campaign conducted from Jan. 7 to March 31 under sponsorship of Associated Industries of New York State, Inc., with the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association as co-sponsor.

Thirty-five area firms filed 54 entries covering various departments in their industrial firms.

Awards will be presented at the annual banquet at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie, May 7.

Earns Grand Award

Wire-O Corporation, Poughkeepsie, will receive a grand award, which is presented as a 100 per cent award for the participant working with the greatest number of man-hours in his particular group and section.

Sedgwick Machine Works Inc., Poughkeepsie, will receive a 5-year award which is a special citation presented to each entry who participates accident-free for five years or more consecutively.

Firms receiving the 100 per cent awards include: The Callanan Road Improvement Co., Plant 3, Kingston; Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen; International Business Machines Corp., Federal Systems Division, Kingston; Channel Master Corp., Ellenville; Ferroxcube Corporation of America, Saugerties; Smithers Tools and Machine Products Inc., Red Hook.

Area Includes Ulster

One hundred per cent awards are presented to each participant completing the entire campaign accident-free and Certificates of Achievement are presented to any entry with less than a perfect record but with an accident frequency rate lower than the average accident frequency rate for his group and section.

The Poughkeepsie Area II includes Dutchess and Ulster Counties and shows a total of 12,977,163 man-hours worked during the twelve-week campaign with 57 accidents and no deaths for an accident frequency rate of 4.3923 per million man-hours worked. This compares with 1961 when there was a total of 12,882,061 man-hours worked with 65 accidents and no deaths for an accident frequency rate of 5.04 per million man-hours worked. The Poughkeepsie area accident frequency rate of 4.3923 is less than the State rate of 6.405 which is an all-time low. In the 37 year history of the program, the number of industrial accidents per million man-hours worked has dropped ffrom 22 to 6.405.

First Quarter Results

Firms entering the Safety Campaign conducted during the first quarter of each year are grouped according to size and type of employment thus giving small firms as well as large ones an equal chance ot win an award. The Annual Accident Prevention Campaign which is operated as a public service by Associated Industries of New York State, Inc. and The Mid-Hudson Industrial Association as co-sponsor is open to all types of occupations.

The campaign is supervised by a 21-man safety committee comprised of safety directors of various firms throughout the state. The chairman of the group is Claude T. May Put Indians Doing Work Who Receive Welfare

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Indians receiving public welfare aid may be put to work on state projects to improve their reservations, under a new state law.

A spokesman for the State Social Welfare Department said the legislation, although designed specifically to cover Indian-reservation projects, would not preclude use of other relief recipients on other state work.

The law previously covered assignment of welfare recipients to county, city, town and village work-relief projects.

In work-relief, able-bodied men on welfare are assigned to government projects to earn all or part of the tax-supported aid they receive.

There was no estimate of the number of Indians who would be affected.

The legislation was among several on which Gov. Rockefeller announced decisions Tuesday and today.

He is entering the closing days of the annual, bill-signing period, in which he approves or vetoes measures left with him by the Legislature.

The governor's office estimated he had 300 bill remaining on his desk. He has yet to announce action on approximately 200 bills he signed Tuesday.

Rockefeller has until midnight Monday to complete action. An aide said the governor would complete the bill-signing job on Sunday, however.

The governor has scheduled two speeches in New York City on Monday—one at Union Theological Seminary, the other at the 150th Anniversary Dinner of the New York City Mission Society.

In explaining the Indian work-relief bill, the Welfare Department spokesman noted that local welfare departments are reimbursed in full by the state for any relief funds paid to Indians.

The spokesman said the state public works department planned various projects on reservations, such as improving water supplies, and residents of the reservation would be assigned to help.

Home Extension Service News

Today, it is not just the home gardener who has the chance to enjoy fresh vegetables but the city dweller as well.

Fresh vegetables are at their best when first picked. Experienced shoppers know that it pays to check the quality of vegetables on display.

To take care of the spring vegetables now in season, refrigerate them in plastic bags or in the vegetable crisper soon after purchase. Plan to use them within a few days.

It may not be apparent to the eye, but food stored too long loses much of its flavor as well as its tenderness.

Below are some suggestions so that shoppers may vary the menu.

Asparagus: Serve cooked asparagus with varied butters—add ground basil or toasted sesame seeds to melted butter, or brown the butter and mix it with bread crumbs. If you like sauces, try dill sour cream sauce or chive hollandaise.

Mustard and turnip greens: To vary the seasoning, add bacon or salt pork to the greens during cooking. Or add minced onion, grated nutmeg or horseradish. Serve the cooked greens with wedges of lemon, or top with parmesan cheese. These greens also adapt to casseroles, such as greens with ham.

Parsley: Often considered a garnish, parsley can take a more significant role in dishes. Combine a considerable amount of parsley with bread crumbs, thyme, butter, and onion for a stuffing for fish. Or serve it in butter as a sauce on asparagus—chop a generous amount of parsley into the butter.

Remember, May has been named Nutrition Month. Be especially aware of the importance of good nutrition to health during this month.

At the Markets

MEAT—Meat supplies show little change. Plenty of beef and pork are available.

Broilers and frozen turkey continue bargain meats. Check your local market for meat specials.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Nearly all dairy products will be in greater supply this year than last. Fluid milk production continues to mount towards the seasonal spring peak. Stocks of butter, nonfat dry milk, and cheeses are higher than a year ago. Ice cream production this year may well set new records. Include dairy products often in menus.

VEGETABLES—Another cold snap has hit southern growing areas and may affect vegetable shipments, so check local market supplies carefully. Vegetables expected in abundance include artichokes, asparagus, Iceberg lettuce, eastern potatoes, cabbage, broccoli, and yellow onions. The leafy greens, such as dandelion greens, escarole, and broccoli rabe, will be fairly abundant. Some of these greens are from local origin. Other reasonable vegetable selections include snap beans, carrots, cauliflower, radishes, mushrooms, and celery.

Stone Ridge Church

The annual roast beef dinner of the Stone Ridge Methodist Church will be held May 3 at the church. Serving will start at 5 p. m.

Farm Youth Exchange Program Selects Girl From Ulster County as Delegate to Uruguay

JANET NICKERSON

A Katsbaan girl, Miss Janet Nickerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nickerson, has been selected as an International Farm Youth Exchange to Uruguay.

Miss Nickerson is the first Ulster County 4-H Club youth to be selected as a New York State IFYE delegate.

She is a 1958 graduate of Saugerties Central School, and is presently a senior in the College of Home Economics at Cornell University.

Her local 4-H Club membership included four years as an individual member enrolled in Poultry, Dairy, Garden, Clothing, Foods and Home Improvement project work. Later Miss Nickerson acted as a junior leader to the Katsbaan Lone Strangers 4-H Club. During her active membership she was selected as a New York State Cherry Pie Baker at Rochester, a delegate on the New York City Poultry Award Trip, and New York State 4-H Club Congress at Ithaca, and an Ulster County State Fair representative for Poultry Judging Team, Dress Reviews, Dairy Judging and exhibits. Miss Nickerson has also been a member of the Cornell University Campus 4-H Club for three years, and at present is secretary of the club.

While attending Saugerties Central School, she was active in debate, senior band and honor society. During her four years at Cornell University, she has also been an active participant in numerous campus activities. She is a member of Chi Gamma Sorority, Women's Student Government Association, Resource Committee, Home Economics Student Faculty Commission, Home Economics Club and Ag Domicon Council.

Miss Nickerson is an honor student, and also a recipient of numerous local, county and state scholarships. These include Sears & Roebuck Foundation Scholarship, Saugerties P-TA Scholarship, State Home Demonstration Scholarship, New York State Regents Scholarship, State Bankers Scholarship, Dela S. Bishop (Cornell University) Scholarship, and Womans Student Government Organization Scholarship.

Rural youth in the IFYE program visit other lands to live and work with farm families. The IFYE exchange program cooperating with 60 countries of the free world exchange youth from all countries for a period of six months. Miss Nickerson will be one of the three New York State delegates leaving in September for a foreign country. In exchange youth from other countries come to the United States to learn about life in this country.

In the United States, the program is sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation and the Cooperative Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Land Grant Colleges and Universities. This privately supported program is made possible by combining the grassroots support of 4-H members, leaders and local business with national contributions through the National 4-H Sponsors Council. Ministries of Agriculture often assist in other countries much the same as the United States Department of Agriculture and state cooperate in the United States.

Ulster County has shared in the program in the past, as four county families have played host to IFYE delegates. These families are Mr. and Mrs. George Mollenhauer, Rosendale, who acted as host to an IFYE from India in 1957; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Roosa, Lyonsville, who hosted a delegate also from India in 1957; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Kelder, Accord, whose delegate came from Denmark in 1960 and Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanford Cross, Kyserike, whose IFYE delegate came from the Netherlands in 1954.

Applications to participate in the IFYE program are submitted through the County Extension Agent to the State IFYE Committee. This committee selects the state's candidates and submits their applications to the National 4-H Club Foundation, where final selection and placements are made.

Following her graduation from Cornell University this June, Miss Nickerson will return home to work for the summer months. When ready to leave for her six months in Uruguay, her first stop will be in Washington, D. C. for a week of Orientation by the National 4-H Club Foundation staff, specialists of the United States Departments of Agriculture and State, and at the host countries embassy. From there she will go to Forida and fly to Uruguay.

While in Uruguay, her experiences will be shared by sending back newspaper stories, magazine articles, radio recordings and personal letters. Miss Nickerson will take along with her a collection of Ulster County area slides donated by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, and also the Ulster County 4-H Club and Agricultural departments, to show families, farms and other aspects of life in the United States.

When the program is completed, the sponsoring organization in Uruguay will meet with Miss Nickerson to help her interpret her impressions. In addition, when she returns to the United States, she will be assisted in evaluating her experiences by the National 4-H Club Foundation and the State IFYE project leaders. At this time she will be available to speak to groups in the State about the exchange program in which she has participated.

Onteora Central Teacher Awarded Coe Fellowship

Matthew J. Ostoyich, teacher of history, Onteora Central School, Boiceville, is one of the twenty public high school teachers awarded a Coe Fellowship for a month of study in the Institution of American Studies, State University of New York, Long Island Center, Oyster Bay, New York. The announcement was made by Dr. Marvin A. Rapp, director of the William Robertson Coe Fellows program.

These twenty New York State history teachers were nominated by Miss Mildred F. McChesney, Supervisor of Social Studies, State Education Department, University of the State of New York, Albany. Coe Fellows are also chosen from college faculties of the State University units.

MATTHEW J. OSTOYICH

The Coe Fellowship Program was established in 1960 by the Planting Fields Foundation created by William Robertson Coe. The theme of the seminar this year is "Unity and Diversity of the American Political Tradition." The purpose of the seminar will be to increase the understanding of the resources inherent in the American political tradition. Specifically, it will be to examine American thought and institutional development most directly concerned with the problem of reconciling the two social and political objectives of unity and diversity. The seminar will approach the problem of understanding pluralism in three ways: 1) an examination of some distinguished analyses of the political community which either advance or attack the concepts and institutions associated with pluralism; 2) an examination of a set of issues, largely in English and American history centering around the problem of unity and diversity in the social and political community, and 3) an examination of some modern analyses of the problem of unity and diversity in the free and communistic world.

Mr. Ostoyich has been a member of the faculty at Onteora since September, 1957 and has been Chairman of the Social Studies Department since September, 1959. He received his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees from the State University of New York, College at Albany. Earlier this year, Mr. Ostoyich was chosen as a John Hay Fellow to study at the University of Chicago during the 1962-63 academic year.

Reading Program at OCS Shows Encouraging Results

Improving the reading ability and comprehension of students is a growing trend among all schools today. This is due to the fact that reading holds the key to the study of all subjects. To offer its students the opportunity to improve ability in this basic skill, the Onteora Central Schools provide the services of a part-time reading teacher through the Board of Cooperative Educational Services and employs Mrs. Margaret Ruff in the elementary grades. Mr. Kenneth Ruttenbur carries out the secondary program while Mrs. Margaret Ruff conducts the elementary program.

Mr. Ruttenbur has been dividing his time equally between the Onteora High School and Rondout Valley school. This has been accomplished by scheduling three days a week at Onteora and two days at Rondout for one semister and then reversing the number of days alloted to each school for the second semester. Between twenty and thirty students are scheduled daily for small group work. In addition, the teacher works with English classes.

Most Common Problem

Poor vocabulary is probably the most common reading problem found. Children develop a habit of skipping over unfamiliar words which they meet. Much time is spent in giving them some word attack skills. They are taught to sound letters and groups of letters, get clues from context, note the spelling and learn meanings of words.

A number of students are found whose speed is as low as 150 words per minute. Some cling to the bad habit of reading a word at a time (often with sound effects) and are surprised to learn that faster readers understand better. Some of these things have to be demonstrated to their satisfaction before they do much toward forming better reading habits. A small percentage seem almost completely frustrated by poor reading skills and put forth little or no effort toward improving themselves. Many students have developed their listening skills so that they understand surprisingly well. Some would like to have a teacher read to them continually; but, this is of course a very slow process with the speaker talking at perhaps 125 words per minute.

Perhaps one-quarter of the words found in an average library book, newspaper, or selected textbook are the simple words first met in the primary grades. Some high school pupils have not mastered them and need to acquire these words that they will use over and over throughout their lives. With confidence increased, they can build their skills to the point where most of the words look familiar. Then, regular work with the dictionary will bring them to the point where they can get education in any area through the medium of the printed page.

A good testing program points out the value of the reading and many tests are administered. There are records available to show that some pupils have made as much as a two-year improvement in their reading skills during a short period. A sample score of a student now in the ninth grade, expressed as grade and month of reading achievement, illustrates this point:

March 29, 1961—speed 7.1, vocabulary 7.4, comprehension 9.5, grade average 8.0.

Jan. 19, 1962—Speed 11.8, vocabulary 9.6, comprehension 10.1, grade average 10.5.

Much Improvement

As a result of working with the Science Research Associates reading laboratory in all of Onteora's slower English classes, the teachers concerned have noted considerable improvement in the level of work being attempted and completed. The reading labs provide reading material with high interest level and varying degrees of vocabulary difficulty.

In May, all of the remedial English classes will have another survey test which, when compared with their score of last October, will give additional evidence of improvement with reading skills.

All teachers realize that they must continue to teach reading and listening. As long as life continues, one can improve in both respects. These two abilities are taught in the primary grades but cannot be neglected thereafter. It is a common thing to find adults who are putting forth a considerable effort toward their own improvement in reading and listening. Any help that they can give to our younger citizens, toward a similar end, will do much to improve America.

PhysEdWorkshop Held at Onteora

The board of education of the Onteora Central Schools met on April 3rd with the members of the Physical Education Department to hold the fourth in their current series of curriculum workshops.

The presentation was conducted by Edward Witko, Chairman of the Department. In describing Onteora's physical education program, Mr. Witko stressed the following points:

1 — The physical education program is a three part enterprise with the regular instructional program forming a broad base for the intramural and interscholastic activities. No one part of the program outranks another in educational importance, as all three areas have unique contributions to be made.

2 — The program specifically aims to:

a) Fully develop the strength, endurance, flexibility, co-ordination and over-all fitness of the individual by means of vigorous muscular activity.

b) Provide a wide range of skills which may be used throughout the life of an individual, both to ensure continued fitness and to provide worthy use of increased leisure time.

c) Provide opportunities whereby individuals may learn certain qualities such as courage, self-discipline, self restraint, loyalty, honesty, courtesy, fair dealing and the give and take spirit.

3 — It was noted that the learning of basic skills such as running, jumping, rolling a ball, catching a ball, striking a ball, etc., depends on an effective program of instruction.

4 — In order to better serve the pupils of the area and to more fully implement the stated objectives additional facilities are needed. Three periods of physical education per pupil a week instead of the current two are badly needed.

5 — The department suggested that since all parts of the program are educational in nature, in that they contribute to the growth and development of individuals, the term extra-curricular might better be replaced by co-curricular. It was also felt that, barring gross misconduct, no student should be barred from taking part in this area of education.

Physical education plays an important role in the overall development of every child. Therefore, greater opportunity for participation will lead to greater physical, mental and emotional benefits.

Christian Science Topic Probation

How divine guidance aids man in his efforts to make spiritual progress will be brought out Sunday at Christian Science church services.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation After Death" will include these words of the Psalmist: "As for God, his way is perfect: the word of the Lord is tried: he is a buckler to all those that trust in him... It is God that girdeth me with strength, and maketh my way perfect" (Psalm 18).

This citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read (p. 324): "The way is straight and narrow, which leads to the understanding that God is the only Life. It is a warfare with the flesh, in which we must conquer sin, sickness, and death, either here of hereafter,—certainly before we can reach the goal of Spirit, or life in God."

When you are preparing boiled meat and vegetables you'll find that parsnips—added along with the usual onion, carrot, turnip and cabbage—make a fine flavor addition.

Observe Cancer Progress

In 1937 the American Cancer Society launched its first nationwide education program stressing the importance of early diagnosis. It was also the year the National Cancer Institute was created. This year the ACS and NCI are together observing "Cancer Progress Year" to commemorate 25 years of progress in the fight against cancer in the research laboratory, the hospital, the doctor's office, and the public's attitude.

Sandy Koufax Ties SO Mark; Ty Cline Stars for Cleveland

Swift Southpaw Fans 18 Cubs in LA 10-2 Triumph

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these days Sandy Koufax will strike out 20 batters in a nine-inning game and people may recognize that the Los Angeles Dodgers southpaw is the greatest strikeout pitcher of modern times.

For the second time in his comparatively brief major league career, Koufax equalled the major league strikeout mark when he fanned 18 Chicago players Tuesday as the Dodgers routed the Cubs 10-2.

That gave the 26-year-old Brooklyn native a career total of 992 strikeouts in 980 innings, an average of better than one strikeout per inning.

No other pitcher in the history of baseball averaged a strikeout an inning. Not even Walter Johnson, the all-time whiff king of the majors, or such other strikeout artists as Bobby Feller, Rube Waddell, Lefty Grove and Christy Mathewson did it.

Bucs Top Giants

Pittsburgh won its 11th game in 12 starts, defeating San Francisco 7-3, the same score by which Cincinnati downed the New York Mets. Milwaukee defeated Philadelphia 2-1 and Houston shaded St. Louis 4-3.

Tommy Davis and Duke Snider drove in seven runs between them as the Dodgers clubbed loser Don Cardwell and three relief pitchers for 12 hits. Davis drove in four runs with a home run and single, Snider batted in three with a home run and triple.

Koufax, fanning eight of the first nine batters he faced, finished with a flourish, striking out the side in the ninth for his third victory in four decisions.

Sandy's 18 strikeouts matched the record set by Cleveland's Bob Feller against Detroit on Oct. 2, 1936 and later equalled by Koufax against San Francisco on Aug. 31, 1959. This is a National League daytime strikeout record since Koufax' 1959 effort was achieved at night. Feller accomplished his feat in an afternoon game.

The league-leading Pirates put five of their seven hits together for a five-run fourth inning against loser Juan Marichal as Al McBean registered his second triumph. He needed ninth-inning help from Elroy Face. Catcher Don Leppert homered for the Bucs.

The Reds scored four runs in the first against New York starter Craig Anderson and went on to inflict the 10th defeat on the Mets, who have won only one game. Cincinnati rookie Sam Ellis allowed only one hit but was replaced by Moe Drabowsky in the sixth after walking his 10th and 11th batters. Wally Post hit two doubles and a home run, Vada Pinson also homered and Eddie Kasko had three hits for the Reds.

Warren Spahn scattered nine Philadelphia hits and doubled home the Braves' first run. Eddie Mathews' fifth home run accounted for what proved to be the winning run. Three straight hits after two out in the ninth ruined Spahn's bid for his 56th lifetime shutout but he tossed out the final Philly batter himself to preserve h's second victory of the season career.

Southpaw Hal Woodeshick pitched a six-hitter for Houston against St. Louis and ex-Cardinal outfielder Don Taussig homered in the sixth, off loser Larry Jackson, for the clincher.

Spahn Celebrates 41st With Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Don't get the rockin' chair ready for Warren Spahn yet. The Milwaukee southpaw great is out to prove he's just as good at 41 as he was at 40.

Spahn moved ahead of his 1961 pace by hurling the Braves to a 2-1 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night. It marked his 311th National League victory since 1946.

"I didn't win my first game last year until my 40th birthday, so I guess I'm more than one game ahead," Spahn said. "But I won't complain if I wind up with the same type of season as last year. No pitcher will complain about 21 victories."

Handed the starting assignment against the Phillies a day after his 41st birthday, Spahn evened his season record at 2-2. His two victories represent exactly half the Braves' total in 13 games.

Rookie Swats Two Doubles, Triple In 3-2 Victory

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ty Cline, Cleveland's 22-year-old rookie center fielder, has shaken his slump and lifted the pressure imposed by a can't miss label and a tendency in the teepee to spell that last name C-o-b-b.

Using Chavez Ravine as the site for his war dance, Cline crashed three extra-base hits in a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Tuesday night that kept the Indians in first place in the American League with their sixth consecutive victory.

The much-publicized speed merchant scored the Indians' first run after doubling, drove in the second with another two-base blow, then rapped a triple in the seventh inning to knock in pitcher Ron Taylor with the winning run.

It was quite a one-man show for the left-handed swinging Cline, trying to live up to a host of press clippings after only two seasons in organized ball. His credentials include a .311 batting average at Mobile in 1960 and a .290 mark at Salt Lake City last season.

Cline now has five hits—all for extra bases—in his last 11 trips to the plate after failing to hit in his first dozen appearances.

Birds Streach Streak

Baltimore stretched its winning streak to four with a 5-4 victory over Minnesota. Detroit blanked Kansas City 1-0 behind Don Mossi's four-hitter, the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees 3-1 and Boston bopped Washington 4-1.

Taylor (1-1), pitching for the first time since he lost his debut after hurling 11 shutout innings, gave up only three hits before yielding to reliever Frank Funk in the seventh. Leon Wagner accounted for the Angels' runs with a two-run homer in the sixth.

Boog Powell's bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth drove in two runs and capped a four-run rally that gave the Orioles and Milt Pappas (2-0) their win over the Twins after Jack Kralick had checked Baltimore on one run and four hits for eight innings. Joe Bonikowski (1-1), working in relief of Kralick, took the loss. It was Pappas' first route-going performance since a March 12 appendectomy. He allowed eight hits.

Mossi (2-1) beat rookie Dan Pfister, making his first major league start for the A's, in a stirring pitchers' duel. Going into the eighth Pfister had the Tigers blanked on one hit, but Jake Wood's double and a single by Rocky Colavito brought in the only run of the game. Pfister (0-1) wound up with a three-hitter.

Terry Loses

Floyd Robinson's two-run homer in the eighth inning off Ralph Terry (3-1) got the job done for the White Sox after Joe Cunningham's single had driven in the tying run against the Yankees. The victory went to John Buzhardt (2-1), who gave up a homer to John Blanchard in the second and needed relief help from Frank Baumann and Turk Lown to wrap it up.

Pete Runnels, who hit only three homers last year, hit a pair with the bases empty to support Galen Cisco's four-hit pitching for the Red Sox. Runnels' shot in the eighth inning off Joe McClain (0-2) snapped a 1-1 tie and gave Cisco (2-0) the run he needed to send the Senators to their seventh consecutive defeat.

Ferraro, Natale Sock Home Runs; McAndrew Hurls

Backing up Lonnie McAndrew's five hit pitching with a savage attack of their own, Kingston High batsmen overpowered Saugerties, 14-5, yesterday at the SHS diamond.

Saugerties coach Bill Straub not only saw his club lose the game, but he will be doing without three first string performers for the rest of the season.

Keith Mills, the number one chucker, was suspended by Coach Straub for missing a game the previous day and for walking off the field after being told he wasn't starting the contest against Kingston.

Mike Dodig, a regular outfielder, has been lost through eligibility and Andy Jacobs, another starter, quit because of lack of interest.

The KHS batsmen produced 19 hits against four Saugerties hurlers, with starter Mike Fury taking the loss.

Shortstop Mike Ferraro homered, doubled and singled, driving in four runs. Catcher Paul Natale had a home run, triple and single, driving home a pair. Second baseman Ronnie Thomas continued his early season hitting with a two base hit and a pair of singles in five trips. He drove in three runs. Third baseman Wayne Reynolds also connected three times.

Mike Connects

With Kingston ahead, 4-1, starting the fifth frame, Ferraro slammed his home run, a hefty shot to deep left field. It came with a runner on and widened the gap to 6-1.

The Sawyers nicked McAndrew for a pair in the last of the fifth but the boys of Coach Al Gruner netted five big ones in the sixth to put the contest out of reach.

The Big Inning

With one out in that inning, McAndrew beat out an infield hit and then Jerry Hawkins hit back to the mound. The shortstop was slow in covering second base on the toss and it put two runners on the sacks. Natale promptly sent them home with a ringing triple to left. Eddie Koeppen followed with a double, Ferraro walked and Thomas and Reynolds singled.

McAndrew walked six batters and struck out 12 in his strong performance. Paul Buytkins and Dick Marelli hit doubles and the other two safeties were singles.

Kingston, which has a 2-0 mark, will make its DUSO debut on Monday, hosting Port Jervis at Dietz Stadium.

Robinson—Floyd, That Is, Beats Yanks With Home Run

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The woods are full of Robinsons these days. Jackie in the Hall of Fame. Brooks and Earl with Baltimore. Frank with Cincinnati. But Floyd of the Chicago White Sox is the Robinson of the moment after beating the New York Yankees Tuesday with a two-run homer.

It wasn't always like this. When Floyd came out of high school at San Diego in 1954 he signed a minor league contract with the Padres for only $500. Major league scouts took one look and said, "Too small." Floyd didn't get to the majors until the tail end of the 1960 season. He didn't become a regular until last May.

"Last time I was here half of the stories called me Earl," he recalled today. Nobody is getting him mixed up this year.

Searching for a No. 4 hitter during spring training, Manager Al Lopez settled on Robinson. The search was over. Floyd hit around .400 in the exhibition games and picked up speed when the season started.

"At first I didn't feel I should be hitting fourth," he said. "A clean-up hitter should be a little larger. I'm only 5-8¾.

"It affected me quite a bit the first week or so (you'd never know it from the box scores, for he was hitting .500). Then I decided I just was not a home run hitter. After all, we're not a power club. I just keep to my own style." (Like hitting a ball into the right field bleachers at Yankee Stadium).

Floyd's "own style" has been sensational. He is hitting .469 with 23 hits in 49 at bats. He leads the American League with 21 runs batted in.

Stephens to Play With West Eleven

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — All-America quarterback Sandy Stephens of Minnesota today accepted an invitation to play with the West squad in the All-America Bowl football game here on June 29.

Stephens, from Uniontown, Pa., rolled up a total offense of 1,151 yards in regular-season play last year, and then sparked the Gophers to a 21-3 victory over UCLA in the Rose Bowl.

In the All-America Bowl, he will be reunited with his collegiate coach, Murray Warmath, who is head coach of the West team, and will play against his childhood friend, Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis of Syracuse. Davis, who last week accepted an invitation to play with the east squad, was born in Uniontown and moved later to Elmira.

Winners Capture Tilt With Double Steal in Sixth

Jimmy Brush stole home on the front end of a double steal and the run proved to be the margin of victory as Rondout Valley nipped Marlboro, 2-1, in a UCAL baseball game yesterday at the Marlbletown school diamond in Stone Ridge.

The double theft occurred in the last of the sixth frame and broke open a tight pitching duel between Gordie Bell of the Ganders and Billy Hyatt of Marlboro.

Brush had walked to start the rally. He then proceeded to steal second and third. Lynn Johnson also drew a pass and they then worked their double steal to snap a 1-1 tie.

Rondout tallied in the second frame when Brush and Lynn Johnson smacked back-to-back doubles. Marlboro knotted the count in the fourth on a hit by Vince Caserto, a stolen base and a single by Phil Monte.

Bell then kept out of trouble until the seventh when he put two runners on base with two outs. Brush came in to nab the final out and save the contest for the winners, who are now 2-0 in circuit play.

Podolff Plans On Retirement

NEW YORK (AP) — Maurice Podoloff, the roly-poly czar of professional basketball, is going to retire at the end of next season because, he said today, "there are a great many things I want to do."

The cigar-smoking Podoloff, born 71 years ago in Russia, has been the president and the bellwether of the NBA and its predecessor, the Basketball Association of America, since 1946.

Podoloff made the announcement of his pending retirement Tuesday at the opening session of the two-day board of governors meeting of the NBA. No one was surprised. There had been talk of Podoloff quitting for a long time.

There was no talk of a successor.

"But," sighed one of the owners at the meet, "he'll be hard to replace."

Danbury State Wallops New Paltz Teachers College, 11-3

Bellino Hurls 7-Hitter, Fans 18 for Danbury

Bob Bellino, whose namesake was quite a gridiron star for Navy, hurled a seven-hitter and whiffed 18 batters as Danbury State spoiled the baseball debut of the New Paltz Hawks, 11-3, yesterday at Danbury.

The home side broke open a tight game with a five run burst in the third inning and then added three more in each of the sixth and eighth frames to produce the victory.

Only Sam Mandia was in good form for the visitors. He slapped out a pair of triples and a home run in four trips, driving in two markers.

The Hawks, coached by Loren Campbell, will make their home debut on Saturday, hosting Waterbury.

Hunsacker Ready To Leave Hospital

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Tunney Hunsaker, apparently the winner in his fight for life, was to be released from a Bluefield hospital today.

Left with a brain injury after a fight April 6 in Beckley, Hunsaker underwent two operations before he started to recover.

He was knocked out in the 10th round by Joe Shelton of Cleveland.

As for boxing, "I guess it's all over for me," Hunsaker said Tuesday night as he prepared to leave. "I'd be stupid to go back now."

The 32-year-old former police chief at Fayetteville has recovered the use of his limbs. He started walking, with help, Sunday, and Tuesday night was able to sign his name.

Casey Fined $500 For Beer Ad Pose

NEW YORK (AP)—The Casey Stengel-beer advertising incident was on ice today.

The New York Mets manager was $500 poorer, had been given a verbal slap on the wrist and taken out for pinch hitter Kathy Kersh.

The whole incident came to light Tuesday when it was learned that Stengel had been fined and reprimanded for posing in a baseball uniform for advertisements of the beer company sponsoring radio and television broadcasts of the Mets.

The ads show Stengel in a Mets uniform in position to bunt although company representative Kathy Kersh is standing behind Ol' Case already holding the baseball.

Commissioner Ford Frick said the ads were a violation of baseball rules, which prohibit men in uniform from posing for alcoholic beverage ads.

"But everything's been taken care of now," said the commissioner.

"In future ads the bat will be in the girl's hand, and Casey will be out of the picture."

Koufax Has a Theory, Get Mad After Mistakes

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Sandy Koufax gets mad at himself when he throws a bad pitch. Because of this, the Los Angeles southpaw Tuesday became the first pitcher to twice strike out 18 batters in the major leagues.

Koufax pitched the greatest baseball in his career through the first three innings of the game which the Dodgers won from the Chicago Cubs 10-2.

Yet, he needed two ninth inning breaks to equal the modern record of 18 strikeouts which he previously shared with Bob Feller, the Cleveland fireballer who established the mark in 1938.

First, Billy Williams led off the Cub ninth with a home run and this so infuriated Koufax that "I really started pumping. It was a bad pitch, a curve which hung high and inside."

Koufax pumped so hard that he made Bob Will and Elder White strikeout victims to run his total to 17. Then came another break.

A Big Break

Moe Thacker hit a pop fly for what should have been the game-ending out but first baseman Tim Harkness lost the ball in the wind and sun and it dropped for a single, Chicago's fifth hit. Koufax then fanned pinch batter Moe Morhardt to end the game.

"I had no idea of any records," said Koufax, whose 269 strikeouts last season set another modern National League record. "I was surprised to see the whole team pour out on the field to shake my hand."

Sandy Koufax

Koufax struck out nine of the first 10 men he faced, getting the side out on strikes in both the first and third innings. He threw 144 pitches.

Koufax, 26, fanned 18 San Francisco Giants, on Aug. 31, 1959.

YOUR BOAT

3—What Boat?

BY TED JONES
Marine Designer

While boating under sail is delightful, it is a more or less specialized sport and not so popular as getting there with a motor.

Your boat must be adapted to use to which you intend to put it. You wouldn't purchase a limousine to travel rough mountain trails, any more than you'd buy a jeep to take you to the opera.

A heavily constructed, seagoing boat is wasted on calm, protected waters, and lighter craft built for sheltered waters should not be used where the going is more rugged.

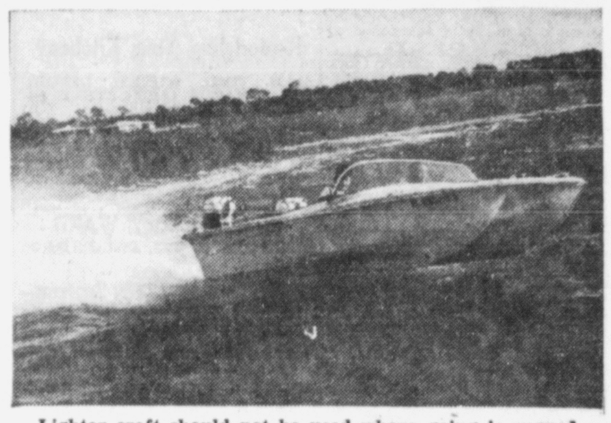

For regular use on open waters, a boat should be 18 feet, or longer, wide of beam and with a high freeboard (distance from waterline to gunwale at the bow). Construction should be sturdy and well reinforced.

The exact type of construction best suited to open waters is a matter of debate. Some favor lapstrake construction, others go for the smooth bottom. Some are convinced that the catamaran design is best. You must decide whether your sheltered-water craft should have a planing hull —for speed—or a displacement hull for softer riding.

Your best bet is to consult an experienced boatman or dealer.

Next: Cost of maintenance.

Lighter craft should not be used where going is rugged.

Braves Tryout Sessions Set This Weekend

Manager Dick Bartsch of the Kingston Braves has slated the first tryouts sessions for the club for this Saturday, 1 p. m., and Sunday, 2 p. m., at Dietz Stadium.

The manager of the New York-New Jersey League team said that all positions on the club are wide open and he invites all area players to attend the tryouts.

Parents of Moss Want Him to Retire

LONDON (AP)—The parents of badly injured racing driver Stirling Moss said today they want him to quit the sport that has made his name a legend.

"You can't go on seeing your son have accidents without wanting him to give up," said Alfred Moss, the driver's father, who has been with him constantly since Monday's crackup at the Goodwood track.

"Stirling knows that I have felt like this for a long time."

Her son is unconscious in a South London hospital which specializes in brain surgery.

Moss suffered serious head injuries in a 100 miles per hour smash at an Easter Monday race meeting watched by 100,000 fans. Early morning bulletin on his condition said he had maintained his "slight improvement" of Tuesday throughout the night.

North-South Amateur Has 2 Rounds Today

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Danger signals were in order today as the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament field headed into a treacherous double round.

By late afternoon only eight players will remain of the 114 who set out hopefully two days ago in the qualifying round. The Wednesday double round traditionally extracts a toll of greats. The pressure of playing two 18-hole rounds when there is so little margin for error usually results in a generous share of upsets.

The initial round Tuesday produced no major surprises.

QUESTION: A neighbor tells me that landslide damage is no longer covered by All Physical Loss insurance. Is this true?
ANSWER: Yes, it is. It was found that to include landslide coverage would make the cost of this fine insurance prohibitive.
* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Cemetery Group Proposes Plan For Landscaping

The Board of Trustees of New Paltz Rural Cemetery announced that several trees have been ordered for planting. The vacant fields for the past few years have been left dormant with the result that briars and trees have grown wild.

The Board of Trustees has arranged with the Badami Brothers to place this land in condition. It will be cleared of the wild growth. This does not include any part of the land that has been laid out for cemetery use.

Twenty-one tons of lime have been spread and fertilizer will be used to improve the land. Corn only will be planted here. There have been false rumors circulated about this project and the trustees would like people to go to the cemetery and verify the facts for themselves.

Plans for the development of both sides of the main entrance have been made by Roy F. Wzrik, landscape engineer, which will be staked out next year.

Moments later tons of water crashed down on them, drowning Hildegard Dietelmann, 28, and daughter Ingeborg, 3. The husband, Reinhard, 29, a school teacher from Stuttgart, managed to save himself and daughter Ursula, 5.
